Thousands Attend Good Friday Services

Brave Dreary Weather

Pastors Tell of Cross's Meaning

Several thousand Mansfielders today braved some of the worst Good Friday weather in years to attend traditional services in commemoration of the Crucifixion of Christ.

Because of the inclement weather, there were a few empty seats in Mansfield's two churches, First Lutheran and First Presbyterian, where usually there is standing room only for the union worship on Good Friday. Public offices and many stores closed for the services.

Both Rev. V. C. Stamets, pastor of the First Evangelical UB church, speaking at the First Lutheran church, and Dr. W. M. Taylor, of the Park avenue Baptist church, speaker at the First Presbyterian church, took "The Cross" as their theme.

"The fact that so many of you have left your homes today to come here for worship offers the conviction that something tremendous expired on Calvary," Dr. Taylor told the near capacity audience at the First Presbyterian church. "That event brought about something that we in ourselves could never achieve.

"You have been brought here because of a feeling of contrition, a sincere regret that such a tragic drama as the crucifixion could have taken place. At the same time we have a strong feeling of gratitude that such a man as Jesus Christ has lived in the world and voluntarily submitted Himself to the humiliation and indescribable pain of the Cross.

"What is the real significance of the crucifiction? What is the lasting value of the Cross of Christ? What does Calvary mean for the 20th century?" Dr. Taylor asked.

SYMBOL OF GOD

He answered these questions by declaring that the Cross of Christ is a revelation of sin, a sublime and supreme revelation of God, of His love and patience, of His mercy. His Wisdom and His originality.

"The cross always will remain the supreme revelation of the character of God: it suggests something, also, of emancipation from sin. It is a vital power and an eternal challenge. There was never such power as that which can transform and redeem a human life. There was never

See Housing Bill Victory

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Sponsors of the long-range housing bill expressed confidence today that the measure would win Senate approval early next week.

Chairman Burnet R. Maybank, D., S. C., of the Senate Banking committee, and Sen. John J. Sparkman, D., Ala., whose subcommittee drafted the proposal, predicted the Senate shoud approve the bill on Tuesday

Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas, Ill, said the legialation which has strong bipartisan support, should reach a vote Tuesday or Wednesday.

Opponents admitted privately that they do not have enough votes to defeat the bill.

It calls for construction of some 810,000 public housing units over a six-year period, a $1,500,000,000 program of grants and loans to local governments for slum clearance, and a $267,500,000 rural housing program.

Contributions Pour In After Fire Hits

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Neighbors and friends have donated nearly $2,500 to help Mrs. Thelma Rude, 27, who lost her husband and two of six children in a fire at the family home Tuesday, a group of self-appointed solicitors reported last night.

Contributions have been obtained in house-to-house solicitations and through the mails. Victims of the fire were: Raymond Rude, 35, the husband, and two sons, Billy, 5, and Tommy, 4.

Demands Lie Test, Fails To Pass It!

CLEVELAND — (INS) — If James A. Davis, 24, of Cleveland is convicted of robbery, he will have only himself to blame.

Davis, who is charged with holding up the Apex Coal Supply company, Nov. 13, asked for a lie detector test yesterday in the midst of his trial.

He got it. He flunked it.

Pope Urges Action On Jerusalem

International Rule Requested

ROME — (INS) — Pope Pius II called upon the world today to establish international rule in Jerusalem and to take all steps necessary to protect Catholicism in the Holy Land.

The supreme pontiff issued a special Good Friday encyclical to supplement his statement of October 24, 1948, in which he first asked for international protection of holy shrines in Palestine.

Today's message was addressed to the bishops of the world.

The pontiff expressed pleasure over the fact that armistices have been reached or are in process of negotiation among the middle eastern states but lamented that "true peace" has not yet been attained.

Pope Pius asked for special peace prayers to hasten a return of tranquillity in Palestine and instructed his bishops to press with all the strength at their command for the following four attainments:

1. — An international regime, for the city of Jerusalem and its surroundings.

2 — Safeguards for all holy places in Palestine, with guarantees of free access and tranquil sojourn for pilgrims.

3. — Liberty for all Catholic institutions of clerical instruction and common welfare.

4 — Conservation and defense of Catholic rights acquired in Palestine throughout the centuries.

The encyclical ordered the bishops to inform all Catholics of the "true state of affairs" in Palestine and to take decisive action with all "leaders of people" in behalf of Catholic rights.

Youth Tells Convincing Story at Bar

A minor who bought liquor at an Ashland road night club recently fooled even the liquor inspectors, so the bartender charged with the sale escaped with a $25 fine yesterday.

Robert Reams, 27 Florence avenue, bartender at the Catalina Night club, was charged by state liquor officers with sale to a minor.

Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler said he was giving Reams a fight fine because it apparently was difficult to determine the exact age of the 18-year-old youth who bought the drink.

Reams originally was charged with serving two other minors but evidence developed that he was not responsible for their obtaining drinks. The youth who did buy the drinks did not reveal his correct age until yesterday's trial.

Reams also was fined $15 and costs for unsafe operation of his car.

City Realtor Badly Hurt

Charles R. Callihan, 429 Park avenue west, received serious internal injuries when his boat capsized while he was fishing near Pensacola, Fla., it was learned today.

Callihan, a Mansfield realtor, was thrown on rocks when the accident occured Wednesday. He was taken to the Escobia General hospital, Pensacola, where he was operated on Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Callihan were vacationing in Florida when the accident happened.

Girl Loses Strange Power Over Statue

Crying Madonna's Tears Cease

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — (INS) — Eleven-year-old Shirley Anne Martin's "crying Madonna" stopped crying this morning.

The brown-haired little girl, whose ability to make apparent tears drop from the eyes of the broken plaster figure of the statue of Saint Ann has created countrywide wonder, sat on the lap of a reporter and said:

"It won't cry any more. I've been kissing it all morning. But it has stopped crying."

Inside the five-room, plain flat in which Shirley Anne lives with her mother, more than one hundred people were jammed this Good Friday morning to see and fondle the broken figurine.

Outside, another 300 or more persons—the devout, the curious and the skeptical — pressed against police lines.

Shirley Anne was brought back home this morning after a night in hiding at the home of a relative, to give her a rest from the excitement that has surrounded her ever since the story of the "crying Madonna" first became public.

Some fought to have the child press their rosary beads on the statue's tear-streaked face when she appeared on the porch of her house yesterday.

In a calm, matter-of-fact manner, she demonstrated her strange "power" over St. Ann, the patron saint of sailors.

There was spirited bidding for the handkerchief and gloves of those who wiped the statue's damp face.

A neighbor, Joseph Rudy, said he watched a blind man approach Shirley and tell her he suffered from severe headaches.

Rudy declared he saw the somber-faced girl kiss the statue on the forehead and when a tear fell, touched the man's eyes with it.

Soon after, Rudy claimed, the blind man smiled and said his headache was gone.

STATUE CRIES—Shirley Ann Martins shows a crowd of 200 persons how tears come to the eyes of a statue as she kisses it.

Pair Taken To Cleveland

Man, Wife Face Federal Charges

A Mansfield couple arrested by police in connection with the theft of $1,700 worth of clothing and jewelry from the Pennsylvania railroad dock here was released to U. S. Marshalls and taken to Cleveland for arraignment, police said today.

Edward Louis Peterson, 47, and his wife, Betty, 49, were arrested by police in connection with the theft which became a federal offense because the loot was taken from an interstate shipment.

Jewelry valued at $1,100, property of the National Ring and Leather company, was stolen.

Police recovered all but $85 worth of the goods. Also taken was a gladstone bag containing womens' clothing valued at $600.

ECA Plans Air Study

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Officials disclosed today that the Economic Cooperation administration is planning a broad, comprehensive study of the European aviation industr

The probe will cover not only requirements of the European Recovery nations for United States planes and aircraft parts but also will include the important problem of competition between American and European airlines.

Glenn H Craig, deputy director of ECA's industry division, said no definite plans have been made as yet but indicated that the study will be started in the near future.

Endurance Fliers Jubilant

Break World Record, To Keep on Flying

FULLERTON, Calif. — (UP) — Two tired but happy owners of a new world endurance flight record flew their light plane in lazy circles today and announced they hope to stay aloft "two weeks or a month more."

While a crowd of 2,000 cheered, Bill Barris and Dick Riedel shattered the decade-old mark of 726 hours at 5:44 p. m. yesterday over Fullerton airport, and an hour later hung up a new official record of 727 hours.

The 36-year-old flight instructors took off from the airport at 11:44 a. m. March 15 in "The Sunkist Lady," a small Aeronca cabin plane.

Since then they have flown leisurely to Florida and back, taking on fuel and supplies three times a day from a speeding jeep.

Earlier yesterday they flew at windshield height alongside a fast-moving car Santa Ana, Cal., airport and shook hands with Wes Carroll and Clyde Schlieper of Long Beach, Cal., who set the old mark.

"It was tough on the nerves those last 24 hours, knowing we were getting closer and closer to the record," they radioed the ground. But it's great to be over the hump. Now we can relax and just keep on flying."

Barris and Riedel hoped to stay aloft at least until 11:44 a. m. April 26, making six weeks or 1,008 hours continuously in the air. They estimated they had flown 60,000 miles so far.

"We're feeling wonderful, both mentally and physically," they said, "and the engine's purring as smoothly as it did on takeoff."

Their three previous attempts last year ended in failure, with 566 hours the longest they stayed aloft then.

The pilots alternated sleeping and flying the red, orange and cream four-place plane, moving around the cramped quarters as much as possible and doing occasional bicycle exercises while lying down.

Fear Child Kidnaped

SPRINGFIELD — (UP) — Sheriff J. Arthur Auman today advanced a theory of kidnaping in the disappearance of a three-year-old girl missing since yesterday afternoon from her farm home near Donnelsville.

The youngster, Sandy Robinson, was last seen in a swing in the front yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Foster, who raised her.

Deputies, neighbors and Donnelsville school boys scoured the farm until midnight last night searching for the child and planned to continue today.

Shuman said the child's swing was close to U. S. route 40 and kidnaping was a possibility. Mrs. Foster said that Sandy was a child who would attract anyone's attention.

Sandy's father, William Robinson, 33, has been missing since March 24 and her mother is in a mental hospital, police said. Two other children are living with relatives.

Vets Outline Project

Plan Ball Diamonds as War Memorial

Baseball and softball diamonds for the use of Mansfielders and Richland countians were designated as the Number One item on the proposed Richland county Living War Memorial program last night by the Joint Veterans commission.

The commission, meeting at the headquarters of DAV Chapter No. 21, agreed to back ball diamonds as the first project for the memorial because of the growing need for additional recreational facilities in the Mansfield area. No site has been chosen.

An advisory committee of Mansfield business and civic leaders was formed to help the veterans get their program started when the memorial project was first mentioned over two years ago. This committee and all persons who believe Richland county should have a memorial to its war dead have been invited to attend the next meeting April 27 at 8 p. m. in the VFW clubrooms in the Madison township Memorial building on Park avenue west.

Members of the advisory committee and their capacities are Roger J. Au, construction Edward D. Gibson and Laurence Todd, program set-up; Paul R. Tappan, Harold Arlin, financial advisement; Stanley Kamen and John Fike, recreation facilities; Thomas G. Zaugg, architectural design; Paul M. Eliot, property management; Atty H. Eugene Ryan, legal adviser, and W. C. Mead.

Present at last night's meeting were veteran delegates from the VFW Post No. 3494, DAV Chapter No 21, Amvets, AVC, and 37th Division association.

Juvenile Cases Up Sharply

Judge Blames Adult Behavior

Richland county juvenile cases showed an increase of more than 100 per cent during the first three months of this year as compared with a similar period in 1948.

Judge Stuart H. Cramer said today 51 cases involving juveniles under 17 years old were brought into his court in the three-month period ended March 31. There were 25 cases in the corresponding period last year.

Helping boost the total were the cases of nine juveniles, apprehended in a pool hall in the north end of the city last March 18. Some had been playing poker.

Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer sees in the increase a reflection of adult delinquency. He said juvenile behavior "follows the adult behavior pattern," adding that the FBI report shows an increase in crime for the period.

He said the increase was big for a three-month period, but added that it "may be just one of those things that happen." He said this was just a "short term comparison," and that comparisons "must be made on a yearly basis to get an accurate picture."

UNREST BLAMED

Judge Cramer said anything that brings about unrest in the home is reflected in the behavior of adults and of children.

Unemployment and stress and nervousness are contributing factors, the judge said.

He added the increase shows juvenile delinquency is a constant problem. His department must have facilities and personnel to handle the problem, he said.

He said a courtroom and a juvenile detention home are urgently needed. He added there must be a detention home to house children while their cases are under investigation.

Children 14 and over are held in city or county jail at present or returned to their homes. County commissioners have not obtained a detention home, although the county has been without one since Jan. 1, and notice was given last summer that the Salvation Army could no longer handle juveniles after Jan. 1, 1949.

Legislators Start Home

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Most House members headed home today for a ten-day "breather" before returning on April 25 to start a knockdown fight on labor legislation.

The prolonged Easter recess started last night, after the House ran its record of appropriations since Monday to $24,000,000,000, a peace-time high for one week.

The Senate, delayed earlier this year by a filibuster over civil rights and long arguments on foreign aid, had to stay on the job. Its members will return Monday to debate on a long-range housing bill.

As House members started home, Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts told them they could assure their constituents "that they have done a remarkable job."

But he reminded the House that still ahead are federal aid for schools, repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, increases in minimum wages, taxes, health insurance and civil rights.

Bricker Spurns Governor's Race

WHEELING, W. Va. — (AP) — Senator John W. Bricker said yesterday he will not be a candidate in the Ohio gubernatorial race in 1950.

"I understand," Bricker said, "that a columnist made this forecast not so long ago and linked Senator Taft's name with it. Neither of us has ever discussed such a thing. Again, it's untrue."

Robbery Suspect Captured

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.— (UP)—One of three young desperadoes wanted in the holdup of the bank of Follansbee and the kidnaping of two Weirton, W. Va., patrolmen was arrested today as he slept at his home at nearby Sebraton, W. Va.

Sgt. D. E. Adams of the state police here said Roy Mann, 26, was taken into custody at the request of Pennsylvania authorities. He was asleep when state police and an FBI agent broke into his home here.

Capt. Andrew Hudock of the Pennsylvania state police at Greensburg, Pa., said Mann definitely was one of the three men who held up the bank of Follansbee Wednesday and escaped with more than $5,000. He said he had definite information that the other two bandits were "heading south," probably to Florida.

SHELLS FOUND

Sgt. Adams said Mann gave up without a struggle. No firearms were found in the house, but a handful of .32 caliber pistol shells was in a pocket of Mann's jacket.

An unidentified woman in the house with Mann was not taken into custody.

Capt. Hudock said that he was almost certain that the other two bandits are Carl Klosz, 30, of Pittsburgh, and James Bernett, 25, Latrobe, Pa.

He said Mann, Klosz and Bernett were also linked with the $100 holdup of a store at Ligonier, Pa., last Tuesday.

Capt. Hudock said that Leroy Howell, 17, an AWOL soldier arrested yesterday in a stolen automobile, probably had no connection with the holdups.

Damage Hits $19 Million

Earthquake Loss Toll Seen Rising

SEATTLE —(INS)— Assessment of damage in the Pacific northwest's earthquake reached a tentative figure of $19 million, today as possibilities were it might go even higher.

Charles W. Bryant, state director of civil defense, said his reports indicated the loss in Washington state cities would run from $15 million to $19 million. Bryant said the total might be increased after surveys of all damaged buildings are completed.

Damage to school buildings was an immediate cause of concern for authorities. Bryant said that the Wednesday noon quake caused an estimated $6 million damage to school buildings alone. The roof of one school building at Tacoma collapsed and killed an 11-year-old—one of eight persons who died in the quake.

The Red Cross reported that 64 persons were seriously injured during the tremor.

Seek Fabulous Lost Dutchman

MESA, Ariz. — (UP) — Eight men equipped with treasure maps and "scientific know-how" headed into the rugged superstition mountains today in search of the fabulous Lost Dutchman gold mine.

Scores of persons have died in the search for the almost legendary mine, said to be the world's richest. But Merrick Lewis, Alliance, O., a sophomore at the University of Arizona in Tucson, said he hoped months of careful preparation would enable his group to get through 170 miles of the wildest country in Arizona They left here yesterday.

"At least we hope to find an explanation for the deaths of many of our predecessors," Lewis said.

Arrest Protested

PRAGUE — (UP) The U. S embassy protested today against the "arbitrary" arrest of Miss Vlasta Adele Vraz of Berwyn Ill., and demanded her release.

Extensive Damage Reported

Snow Predicted For Tonight

(By International News Service)

Many Ohio communities surveyed the damage left across the state today by a violent electrical storm accompanied with winds up to 45 miles per hour which swept the area last night.

One death as a result of the storm was reported in the Cincinnati area where chimneys toppled and poles, trees and wires were knocked down.

Close on the heels of the storm came word from the weather bureau that snow can be expected in the upper portion of the state tonight.

In Columbus the hilltop section was without power for several hours, traffic was hindered by felled trees and windows were smashed as the winds raged.

Charles Shaw, 38-year-old resident of Cincinnati's suburban Lockland, was killed when his auto skidded during the storm and smashed into a pole.

CHIMNEY TOPPLES

The high winds in Cincinnati tipped over a chimney which crashed onto a parked car containing Mr. and Mrs. John Meyers, both 23, and their son two-year-old John Richard Meyers.

The entire family was hospitalized with severe lacerations suffered when the falling bricks crushed the roof of their car.

The wind ripped the Cincinnati seaplane base overturning two seaplanes in the Ohio river. Workmen were attempting to salvage one today but the other plane was beyond repair.

In Columbus ten repair crews were put to work on knocked-out lines serving the darkened hilltop section.

Meanwhile Lake dams in Tuscarawas county were closed as the result of a flash flood in neighboring Harrison and Belmont counties.

Two bridges were washed out in the Wheeling creek valley following a cloud burst. Twenty families were routed from the area Wednesday.

Forecaster C. G. Andrus said Ohio was in the middle of a thundershower region last night and early today, but he added that the system was moving eastward.

Andrus said the expected snow tonight would be confined to the north half of the state but he added that temperatures would hover near the freezing mark, thereby resulting a quick melting of the snow.

Storms Hit Mansfield

Wind, rain, and hailstorms battered Mansfield last night and early today, but no major damage was reported.

The first storm struck about 3 p. m. Thursday. A violent hail storm banged at windows again about 4 a. m. today, rousing Mansfielders from their slumbers

Farmers today speculated as to possible damage caused by the hail which followed a warm rain earlier in the evening. The early evening rain brought out most cherry blossoms in the vicinity and helped to open peach blooms.

Noon temperature for the city was a chilly and penetrating 37 degrees, a decided contrast from yesterday's balmy 71 degree high at 3:30 p. m. Temperatures dropped steadily from a 54 degree reading at midnight.

There was encouraging news, however, from the weatherman, for Easter Sunday. Rising temperatures are expected to clear skies for Sunday and Monday. Temperatures for today and Saturday will average two to four degrees below normal and a cold spell is forecast to return for next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Come to EASTER SERVICES

Glory in this day of His resurrection by attending services in the church of your choice

THERE'S a wonderful spring tonic you can give yourself! Come to church for Easter services–with your family, and with your friends. Listen to young voices sweetly raised in song. Hear simple words, inspired words aimed at bringing solace to restless souls and peace to disturbed minds.

At Easter, as at few times in the year, we are reminded of the simplicity He preached . . . the brotherhood of man on which He based all His teachings . . . the love He wished to spread to all men's hearts. His message lives again, at Easter, just as He lives in all that is good.

Come to church for Easter services. Sing and pray more sincerely than ever before. You'll be glad you did–when you come out of church, happy in spirit and at peace with yourself.

Jim Jeffries Says Young Fighters Shun Training

By HAROLD SWISHER

LOS ANGELES—(UP)—Big Jim Jeffries, one of boxing's all time greats, had a word of advice for "the young 'uns" today as he celebrated his 74th birthday.

Jeffries, who won the world's heavyweight title from Bob Fitzsimmons at Coney Island, N. Y., in 1899 and then retired undefeated five years later, claims that condition is about 85 per cent

"Most of the present-day boxers don't do enough training," Jeffries said. "They do a little shadow-boxing, punch a bag, and take a shower.

"Some of these so-called fighters should see what I went through to train for that first Fitzsimmons fight. I trained every day for six months. But today the kids don't want to train. They5d rather run around."

Jeffries owns a 20-acre ranch at nearby Burbank, Cal. He has been holding amateur fights every week in a barn which he converted into a fight club. Jim explains that it wasn't much work to set up his small-sized arena.

"I just hauled all the junk out, moved some benches and seats in, and built the ring right where I used to park my hay wagon," Jeffries said.

DON'T LIKE COLD

Jim had to install one modern device in his barn that hurt his pride. The customers complained of the cold, so he set up a floor furnace while muttering about people who couldn't keep warm at a fight.

The place was quite a hang-out for film celebrities. Such stars as Andy Devine and Leo Carrillo were there almost every week. They received no favoritism from the boss.

"Everybody's gotta line up for seats," Big Jim shouts to the crowd, which fills the place to its 1,400 capacity.

More than a year ago the state fire marshal moved in and closed the barn.

Jeffries was recovering from a paralytic stroke at the time. He didn't let the ailment or the fire marshal's ruling stop him. Instead, Jeffries regained the use of his paralyzed left side, hired some carpenters and started rebuilding.

A few weeks ago, the barn received an OK from the authorities. Last Saturday night Jeffries had a grand opening, starting off with a wrestling card which featured Georgeous George and Jim Mitchell.

But Jeffries plans to switch back to amateur fights soon.

Tavern Ball Team Drills

Only 12 candidates greeted the opening of practice of the T. and E. Tavern baseball team on a soggy Liberty park diamond last night. Five of last year's squad were among the number.

Manager Joe Siwek said that unless the field dries off in time for a drill tonight, no more practice will be held until 5:15 p. m. Tuesday. The Taverns will work every evening thereafter.

Veterans at yesterday's drill were Siwek, Richard Snavely, Ernie Tinkey, Ivan Witchey, and Red Garver.

Four Drivers Enter '500'

INDIANAPOLIS — (UP) — Four additional entries for the 33rd annual 550-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Memorial day have been announced by speed way officials.

Wilbur Shaw, speedway general manager, said entries had been received from Henry Meyer Dayton, O.; Roy Worline, Indianapolis; John F. Koehnle, Los Angeles, and Howard Keck.

Jimmy Jackson, of Desert Hot Springs, Calif., and Indianapolis, was announced as driver of the Keck car, and Jimmy McDowell, Los Angeles, was named to pilot the Iddings special entered by Meyer.

Fainting Spell Costs 50 Bucks

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — It's up to shortstop Bill Schuster of the Los Angeles ball club to say whether his "fainting" act was worth $50.

That was the fine applied to Schuster by prexy Clarence Rowland of the Pacific coast league after Schuster pulled a mock swoon over a close decision by umpire Ira Gordon during the Angel-Portland game last week.

Old Time Baseball Ace Calls Spring Training Unnecessary

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— Modern day athletes who gripe about not enough time to get into playing condition should listen to Eddie Roush, the old New York Giant and Cincinnati Red outfielder.

Roush always considered spring training a pain in the neck. Hardly a year went by that he didn't hold out, not so much that he wanted more money, but because he hated to partake in training drills.

Roush always contended that lengthy spring tours of the sun belt were unnecessary to the conditioning of a player, and many times injurious.

"If a ball player takes care of himself during the winter—and he certainly gets paid enough to be interested in his condition—he shouldn't need more than 10 days to get ready to open the season," says the man who was known as the Ty Cobb of the National league.

"It's easy to go home in the fall and settle into your big chair, with pipe and slippers, and loaf away the winter," Ed adds, "but a wise athlete will get out of doors as much as possible, hiking, hunting or just walking, to keep his legs in shape.

"If he takes care of his legs, all he will need in the spring will be a few days with a bat to loosen up his shoulder muscles and get his eyes on the ball."

Ed, an annual visitor here, never misses a chance to work out with the Cardinals. He has been a regular here since he quit playing after the 1931 season. A keen student of self-conditioning, Roush today looks like he can go out and give a good account of himself despite his 56 years.

One of the finest defensive outfielders the game ever knew, Roush also was a standout batter. He led the league two seasons, and owns a life-time batting average of .327.

"What did I do in the spring? Well," Roush went on, flashing a wide grin, "I never saw much of it. But when I finally got to camp, I'd get myself a pitcher and go over in a corner of the field. He'd throw to me until I got my eyes on the ball and my shoulders loose.

"Then I'd go out on the infield and shag ground balls for a couple of days to get my legs and wind back. The last day or two in camp I'd go to the outfield and catch a few balls.

"In 1919 I didn't report to the Cincinnati club until three days before the season opened. And I played in the opener and eventually led the league in batting."

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (UP) — A big nine inspection committee here to decide whether Michigan State will be admitted to the conference, was astounded when it saw a wrestling class practicing unethical arm-breaking holds.

New Yorkers Throw Money To Four Winds

NEW YORK — (INS) — New York, as the rest of the country has long been aware, is a place where people make a practice of standing on the doorstep and pitching their money into the street for the convenience of the ashmen.

But it took an official report of the state's tax bureau to prove it today.

The report disclosed that $216,522.65 went unclaimed in winning bets at various New York race tracks last year and, by law, stood forfeited as of April 1.

Five running tracks piled up $147,861.35 last year, six harness racing plants a cache of $68,661.30, the report disclosed, while awaiting claimants who happened to be unavoidably detained elsewhere.

Just one of those things, of course—like the five or six gents who bought $50 mutuel tickets on various winners at Jamaica last year.

And then plumb forgot all about it.

7 Iberia High Letters Given

IBERIA — Varsity basketball letters have been awarded to seven Iberia high school athletes by Coach J. Daniel Baker. Gold basketballs were given two-year lettermen Eugene Morton, Richard Ernst, Dale Miller, and Gerald Miley. Charley Miley, Geral Rinehard, and Edgar Robinson also got letters.

Managers were Tommy Kleffman, Rex Riddle, Jimmie Sautter, and Randall Schreck. Cheerleaders included Betty Rinehart, Rose Ann McClarren, Barbara Sautter, Barbara Wilcox and Elaine Sherman.

Jim Jeffries Says Young Fighters Shun Training

By HAROLD SWISHER

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Big Jim Jeffries, one of boxing's all time greats, had a word of advice for "the young 'uns" today as he celebrated his 74th birthday.

Jeffries, who won the world's heavyweight title from Bob Fitzsimmons at Coney Island, N. Y., in 1899 and then retired undefeated five years later, claims that condition is about 85 per cent

"Most of the present-day boxers don't do enough training," Jeffries said. "They do a little shadow-boxing, punch a bag, and take a shower.

"Some of these so-called fighters should see what I went through to train for that first Fitzsimmons fight. I trained every day for six months. But today the kids don't want to train. They5d rather run around."

Jeffries owns a 20-acre ranch at nearby Burbank, Cal. He has been holding amateur fights every week in a barn which he converted into a fight club. Jim explains that it wasn't much work to set up his small-sized arena.

"I just hauled all the junk out, moved some benches and seats in, and built the ring right where I used to park my hay wagon," Jeffries said.

DON'T LIKE COLD

Jim had to install one modern device in his barn that hurt his pride. The customers complained of the cold, so he set up a floor furnace while muttering about people who couldn't keep warm at a fight.

The place was quite a hang-out for film celebrities. Such stars as Andy Devine and Leo Carrillo were there almost every week. They received no favoritism from the boss.

"Everybody's gotta line up for seats," Big Jim shouts to the crowd, which fills the place to its 1,400 capacity.

More than a year ago the state fire marshal moved in and closed the barn.

Jeffries was recovering from a paralytic stroke at the time. He didn't let the ailment or the fire marshal's ruling stop him. Instead, Jeffries regained the use of his paralyzed left side, hired some carpenters and started rebuilding.

A few weeks ago, the barn received an OK from the authorities. Last Saturday night Jeffries had a grand opening, starting off with a wrestling card which featured Georgeous George and Jim Mitchell.

But Jeffries plans to switch back to amateur fights soon.

Ohio Staters Beaten, 4 to 1

COLUMBUS — (AP) — An April shower apparently saved Ohio State university's baseball club from annihilation yesterday.

Even with the game called at the end of eight innings, Notre Dame was on top 4 to 1.

However, the Irish scored seven runs in the top half of the ninth. These were cancelled from the record books when the game was called in the middle of the last inning—thus moving the official score back to the eighth inning totals.

Sunday 'Alley' Bill Approved

COLUMBUS — (UP) — A bill permitting bowling any time Sundays was approved by the Ohio House of Representatives today by a vote of 80 to 45.

The action came on reconsideration of the bill which on March 31 had been defeated by a vote of 58 to 60.

Before approving the bowling measure, the House rejected an amendment authored by Rep. Paul Baker, D., Crawford, which would have permitted Sunday bowling only in the afternoon. The vote against the Baker amendment was 54 to 69.

Tavern Ball Team Drills

Only 12 candidates greeted the opening of practice of the T. and E. Tavern baseball team on a soggy Liberty park diamond last night. Five of last year's squad were among the number.

Manager Joe Siwek said that unless the field dries off in time for a drill tonight, no more practice will be held until 5:15 p. m. Tuesday. The Taverns will work every evening thereafter.

Veterans at yesterday's drill were Siwek, Richard Snavely, Ernie Tinkey, Ivan Witchey, and Red Garver.

Four Drivers Enter '500'

INDIANAPOLIS — (UP) — Four additional entries for the 33rd annual 550-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Memorial day have been announced by speedway officials.

Wilbur Shaw, speedway general manager, said entries had been received from Henry Meyer Dayton, O.; Roy Worline, Indianapolis; John F. Koehnle, Los Angeles, and Howard Keck.

Jimmy Jackson, of Desert Hot Springs, Calif., and Indianapolis, was announced as driver of the Keck car, and Jimmy McDowell, Los Angeles, was named to pilot the Iddings special entered by Meyer.

Fainting Spell Costs 50 Bucks

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — It's up to shortstop Bill Schuster of the Los Angeles ball club to say whether his "fainting" act was worth $50.

That was the fine applied to Schuster by prexy Clarence Rowland of the Pacific coast league after Schuster pulled a mock swoon over a close decision by umpire Ira Gordon during the Angel-Portland game last week.

Leaves College

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Harry G. Pett, wrestling coach and assistant business manager at Baldwin Wallace college, has resigned to become Physical Director at the Greensburg (Pa.) Y.M.C.A. The resignation is effective May 1.

Old Time Baseball Ace Calls Spring Training Unnecessary

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— Modern day athletes who gripe about not enough time to get into playing condition should listen to Eddie Roush, the old New York Giant and Cincinnati Red outfielder.

Roush always considered spring training a pain in the neck. Hardly a year went by that he didn't hold out, not so much that he wanted more money, but because he hated to partake in training drills.

Roush always contended that lengthy spring tours of the sun belt were unnecessary to the conditioning of a player, and many times injurious.

"If a ball player takes care of himself during the winter—and he certainly gets paid enough to be interested in his condition—he shouldn't need more than 10 days to get ready to open the season," says the man who was known as the Ty Cobb of the National league.

"It's easy to go home in the fall and settle into your big chair, with pipe and slippers, and loaf away the winter," Ed adds, "but a wise athlete will get out of doors as much as possible, hiking, hunting or just walking, to keep his legs in shape.

"If he takes care of his legs, all he will need in the spring will be a few days with a bat to loosen up his shoulder muscles and get his eyes on the ball."

Ed, an annual visitor here, never misses a chance to work out with the Cardinals. He has been a regular here since he quit playing after the 1931 season. A keen student of self-conditioning, Roush today looks like he can go out and give a good account of himself despite his 56 years.

One of the finest defensive outfielders the game ever knew, Roush also was a standout batter. He led the league two seasons, and owns a life-time batting average of .327.

"What did I do in the spring? Well," Roush went on, flashing a wide grin, "I never saw much of it. But when I finally got to camp, I'd get myself a pitcher and go over in a corner of the field. He'd throw to me until I got my eyes on the ball and my shoulders loose.

"Then I'd go out on the infield and shag ground balls for a couple of days to get my legs and wind back. The last day or two in camp I'd go to the outfield and catch a few balls.

"In 1919 I didn't report to the Cincinnati club until three days before the season opened. And I played in the opener and eventually led the league in batting."

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (UP) — A big nine inspection committee here to decide whether Michigan State will be admitted to the conference, was astounded when it saw a wrestling class practicing unethical arm-breaking holds.

New Yorkers Throw Money To Four Winds

NEW YORK — (INS) — New York, as the rest of the country has long been aware, is a place where people make a practice of standing on the doorstep and pitching their money into the street for the convenience of the ashmen.

But it took an official report of the state's tax bureau to prove it today.

The report disclosed that $216,522.65 went unclaimed in winning bets at various New York race tracks last year and, by law, stood forfeited as of April 1.

Five running tracks piled up $147,861.35 last year, six harness racing plants a cache of $68,661.30, the report disclosed, while awaiting claimants who happened to be unavoidably detained elsewhere.

Just one of those things, of course—like the five or six gents who bought $50 mutuel tickets on various winners at Jamaica last year.

And then plumb forgot all about it.

7 Iberia High Letters Given

IBERIA — Varsity basketball letters have been awarded to seven Iberia high school athletes by Coach J. Daniel Baker. Gold basketballs were given two-year lettermen Eugene Morton, Richard Ernst, Dale Miller, and Gerald Miley. Charley Miley, Geral Rinehard, and Edgar Robinson also got letters.

Managers were Tommy Kleffman, Rex Riddle, Jimmie Sautter, and Randall Schreck. Cheerleaders included Betty Rinehart, Rose Ann McClarren, Barbara Sautter, Barbara Wilcox and Elaine Sherman.

Ashland Station To 'Air' Indians

ASHLAND — All Cleveland Indians baseball games during the 1949 season will be broadcast over WATG-FM in Ashland.

Two exhibition games broadcasts will precede the league game "airings." The tilt between the New York Giants and Cleveland tomorrow will go on at 2:25 p. m. The other exhibition is listed Sunday. The broadcasts will be sponsored by A. B. Grafton, Inc. of Mansfield and Carl's Home store of Ashland.

Registered and Grade
Fresh and Close-up
The entire offering is either closeup or fresh, and most of them are 1st and 2nd calf heifers.

Among the registered are many with official R.O.P.'s, and others are producing in quantity and quality that it would be profitable to own. These Canadian cows and heifers are well bred and there is a steady effort toward improvement, by their policy in the requirements for registering bull calves. The extra demands for dairy products through the summer months causes the production of more milk to be desired and usually more high priced.

Among the grades are many individuals, whose production in quantity and quality is of the best. They also are young rugged and in good condition.

Many are Calfhood Vaccinated.

Calves are sold separately and guaranteed to live one week. Four generation pedigrees and registration certificates furnished. State Laboratory tested and a negative retest guaranteed within 10 days.

Guaranteed to be as Represented.

Judge Orders Gubitchev, Coplon Trial for May 2

NEW YORK — (INS) — Soviet engineer - diplomat Valentin Gubitchev failed again yesterday to establish that he is diplomatically immune from prosecution on espionage charges and he was ordered to trial on May 2 with his alleged accomplice, Brooklyn-born Judith Coplon.

When the court session ended, special assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas J. Donegan announced that he would confer with the first secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, who was present.

This led to speculation that the Soviet government may be prepared to post the $100,000 bail in in lieu of which Gubitchev has been held since his arrest with Miss Coplon early this year.

Judge Alfred C. Coxe in setting the trial date took note of the federal government's statement that Miss Coplon, a former employe of the Justice department, faces trial on a separate District of Columbia indictment in Washington on April 25.

Gibitchev, at the start of the proceeding asked permission to make a statement, and was given leave to do so. He made a long talk in Russian which had to be interpreted. As he has before, he argued that he is in this country on a diplomatic passport and cannot be tried on the spy charges.

After listening for some time to Gubitchev, Judge Coxe finally cut him off, declaring he was attempting to "filibuster." Gubitchev exhibited his visa and passport, but Judge Coxe declared this was all irrelevant to the issue at hand, the setting of a trial date.

The jurist also pointed out that Gubitchev's claim of diplomatic immunity already had been ruled out in earlier hearings.

Too Much Snow!

BRIGHTON, UTAH — (UP) — Winter resort operators in Utah's Wasatch Mountain recreationland say the 1949 winter has ruined their business with snow enthusiasts. It has snowed so often roads to ski resorts have been blocked on most of the choice week ends.

GOP Scoffs At Forecast

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Supporters of the Taft-Hartley act greeted with hoots of derision an administration prediction yesterday that the House will vote its repeal by May 1.

"Maybe the House will vote to repeal the name, and of course it will vote amendments to straighten out ny inequities," said Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., O.. "But the substance of the Taft-Hartley act will remain in law. The house will not vote to return to the Wagner act."

Other Taft-Hartley backers in both the House and Senate also scoffed at the repeal prediction made by Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin.

Tobin said he has polled Congress and is confident the administration's Taft-Hartley repeal bill will be approved by that chamber "without substantial change" by the first of next month.

TIP FOR YOUR GARDEN

With the days getting longer, house plants may be repotted so that they will make good growth during the spring and summer. Fibrous loam or leaf mold, and bone meal or sheep manure are good to mix with garden loam in making a compost for use with house plants.

Confiscate Over 1,000 Periodicals

Czechs Begin 'War on Press'

PRAGUE — (UP) — Nearly 1,500 issues of 150 foreign magazines and newspapers have been confiscated in Czechoslovakia, a two-month tabulation of the Official Gazette revealed.

Swiss periodicals were the hardest hit, with 325 issues of 33 different periodicals banned. The Swiss National Zeitung had 40 issues banned in two months.

Austria was second on the banned list with 221 issues of 37 magazines and newspapers on the forbidden list in two months. The Weiner Kurier was most unpopular with the censors, with 28 confiscations.

Each confiscation must be confirmed by a court order. The court calendar has been so jammed with confiscation orders from the police that some orders have taken seven months to put through.

France was third on the list, with 94 issues of 15 periodicals banned—of which the Continental Daily Mail and the Paris edition of the Herald Tribune accounted for 43 of the confiscations.

The United States had 62 issues of 16 periodicals banned; Britain, 61 issues of 12 periodicals; Belgium, 11 issues of four periodicals.

Italy, Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Luxembourg also had newspapers and magazines confiscated.

In addition, 37 foreign periodicals have been banned completely. They include The Chicago Tribune, Time-Life, La Croix du Dimanche and Le Matin from France, Die Tat from Switzerland, and the Daily Mail, Catholic Digest, Catholic Times, Catholic Herald, Daily Sketch, and Londynske Listy, a Czech language paper, from London.

A detailed list of the banned Swiss periodicals showed:

Neue Zuricher Zeitung with 34 issues, Basler Nachrichten with 34 and Die Tat completely banned at the end of October.

Also affected were Das Bund with 30 issues, and the Neue Zuricher Nachrichten with 20. Also on the list was the weekly Die Weltwoche, with five issues banned.

Africans Rally To Aid Poor Chicago

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Natives of Kailahun, Sierra Leone, West Africa have sent their entire Easter offering of $22.25 to churchmen to combat the "evils of civilization" in Chicago.

Ralph T. Milligan, Episcopal missionary, wrote a letter accompanying the gift and said the natives were concerned about life in the Windy City. He said they wanted to fight the "bad habits of some Americans in their neglect of Christianity."

APPLE BLOSSOM QUEEN—Miss Margaret Thors, daughter of Thor Thors, minister to the United States from Iceland, has been chosen queen of the 22nd annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom festival to be held at Winchester, Va., April 28 and 29. Miss Thors, a blue-eyed brunet, was chosen from more than 100 nominees to reign over the festival. The festival will be held at the time millions of apple blossoms cover the hillsides of the Blue Ridge mountains and the Shenandoah valley.

Italians Seek to Calm U. S. By Use of Serene Paintings

MILAN, ITALY — (AP) — Italian artists are going to try to teach America the "serene life one should lead" by sending over a collection of unusual modernistic paintings—all aimed at calming down frenetic Americans.

And just to show how serene Italians are, they are going to try to get the paintings to America by sailing them across in a 30-foot schooner with a three-man crew.

To confuse things a bit more, this is not the real object of the risky journey. The schooner is taking to the high seas to collect exotic underwater plants for the Milan Museum of Natural History.

The schooner is the "Pegasus." It is slated to sail from Genoa en route to New York on May 25. Right now the "Pegasus" is here in land-locked Milan, on exhibition at a fair which opened April 12.

Its captain is Vergano Maggiora, 43, a former electrician who turned to art and painting and made a success of it. He will be assisted by a 29-year-old naval officer, Aurelio Matteini, who will be navigator, and a third man, whose name is being withheld to keep his wife from worrying.

The collection of paintings the "Pegasus" will carry will be exhibited at a New York show. Each painting, Maggiora said, "will be a message from one Italian to an American citizen."

"They will be mostly 'messages' appealing to the fantasy of the onlookers, Maggiora said. "The 'messages' are intended to be an example of the serene life one should lead."

First Court Trip Worries Everyone

PRESCOTT, Ariz.—(UP)—Avery Fisher is a free man today but he had a few worrisome moments in a Prescott courtroom.

When things began to look tough for Fisher, charged with dangerous flight of an airplane, he turned to his counsel, Jack Ogg, and whispered:

"This doesn't look so good and this is the first time I've ever been on trial."

Ogg whispered back:

"Don't give up yet — this is my first time in court, too."

Baby a Day Prison Born

CHICAGO—(UP)— An average of one baby a day is born to women prisoners in training schools, reformatories and penitentiaries in the United States and its possessions, welfare statistics show.

In 1947, 364 infants were born in 37 women's institutions, Eugene S. Zemans, executive director of the John Howard Association, said. He added that all the women were pregnant before being admitted to the institutions.

"In almost all cases," Zemans said, "responsibility for the child's care reverts to the county of commitment and plans are made through welfare departments for maternity care and child welfare services."

9 Airports In Area On CAA Plan

Proposes 6 New Ones, Improve 2

Mansfield Municipal and eight area airports were included in 138 Ohio locations the Civil Aeronautics Administration yesterday listed where, it said, airports should be constructed or improved on the basis of existing and anticipated demands for air service.

Port Bucyrus at Bucyrus and Mansfield Municipal Airport were among existing airports for which improvements were recommended.

Among locations listed as requiring new airports, with type of proposed field were Ashland, Crestline-Galion, and Plymouth-Willard in Class two while Class One listings included Loudonville, Millersburg, Mt. Gilead and Shelby. Class One calls for useable landing strip of from 1,800 to 2,700 feet and Class Two for one 2,700 to 3,700 feet in length.

The plan does not represent an allocation of funds but the estimated cost of construction and development outlined in the plan would be $46,836,000 of which $21,881,000 would be in federal funds and $24,955,000 in funds provided by the sponsor.

On the basis of appropriations to be made by Congress, CAA will program for the coming fiscal year the most important locations in the plan.

The plan for Ohio lists 105 new airports for which federal and local sources would expend an estimated $30,389,000. Improvement of 33 of the state's existing airports would cost the same sources an estimated total of $16,447,000.

Galion Will Recover $2,475 In Jobless Compensation

Lausche Acts On Protest Note of 1940

Rep. Baker Presses Claim Against Bureau

GALION — At the request of Governor Frank J Lausche, the city of Galion will be paid back $2,475.29 from the State Unemployment Compensation Bureau

For nine years City Auditor Floyd A. Frye had been trying to recover the money which the city had been froced to pay into unemployment compensation bureau after it had been ruled that city employes were not eligible to receive compensation under the act.

Frye wrote his letter of protest on July 20 1940 to recover money paid into the bureau, and received all but the $2 475 29 The state refused to refund the balance

In January Rep. Carl Baker of Crawford county took steps to recover the money. He filed a claim with the sundry claims board, and prepared a bill for the legislature which would force the unemployment compensation bureau to repay the balance.

After a conference which Gov Lausche called, the bureau was notified of the governor s desire to see the balance paid

The Pittsburgh official also urged cities to work on smoke control and stream pollution problems

Lawrence declared that the "problems today are ills of the entire community and not just the fault of the administration in power They will never be cured by partisan victories" such a challenge to adventurous thinking and living"

"Calvary exists today just as it did 20 centuries ago," Rev. Stamets said as he spoke on Jesus' last words on the Cross, "It is finished." He explained this statement by adding there are many who are crucifying Christ today by mocking Christians and denying God.

Rev Stamets said he did not think Christ's last words meant he was relieved that His humiliation and suffering were over at last Instead He meant His mission was fulfilled, He had completed God's plans for the salvation of mankind

"God created man, and victory over the powers trying to destroy the soul of man had to be the work of God," Rev. Stamets said He added the coming of Christ was for the purpose of fulfilling the work of God, to bring man back to God

PROVED LOVE'S GOD

Rev. Stamets told the congregation, "God proved at Calvary there is no power on earth like suffering love Calvary as a scene of victory was confirmed by the resurrection and ascension of Christ"

When Jesus died on the Cross, he fulfilled three missions, the missions of revelation, redemption, and salvation, Rev Stamets said He told the congregation, When you give yourself to God, the words, it is finished will apply to your salvation also"

A trio composed of Miss Naomi Johnson, Mrs E C Crider, and Mrs Stella Friend, sang 'Oh Calvary, Dark Calvary' They were accompanied by Mrs Clayson Bell at the organ

Rev John G Gensel, pastor of the St Paul Lutheran church had charge of devotions at the First Presbyterian and Rev Willard J Shawk at the First Lutheran

Music for the service at the First Presbyterian church was presented by the Mansfield Treble choir which sang 'Were You There?" under the direction of Mrs W J Hazeltine with Miss Louise Krause at the organ Miss Mabel Zehner was organist for the worship music

Holy Communion rites started last night in many city churches, will continue throughout the afternoon and evening in others. Several thousands partook of the Lord's Supper last night in commemoration of the last gathering of Christ and His disciples before Calvary

Holy Communion will be observed tonight at the First Lutheran church and worship services will also be held at the Grace Episcopal, Main Street Evangelical UB, St Luke's Lutheran, East Mansfield United Presbyterian and the Grace Gospel churches

A three hour period of services got underway today at noon at the St Peter's Catholic church where Mass to the Pre-Sanctified and Veneration of the Cross was observed

2,000 Get X-Rays In Five Days

Unit Available To Public Tomorrow

After taking well over 2,000 X-rays since Monday, the tuberculosis association's mobile X-ray unit tomorrow will be set up at Moorhead's garage here for the general public and all food and restaurant workers

The mobile unit, which takes four pictures a minute, X-rayed 240 employes at the Barnes Manufacturing company this morning and later in the day was moved to the Humphrves Manufacturing company

Health department officials urged all adults in Mansfield, especially food handlers, to submit to the free X-ray.

An X ray is taken with almost unbelievable simplicity and speed by the mobile unit This great speed is made possible largely by a photo timer device This device eliminates all the measuring and dial setting

With an ordinary X-ray machine it is necessary to measure the thickness of the persons being X rayed and set dials on the machine so the correct amount of lumination will be emitted by the machine

The photo timer eliminates this procedure The person merely steps on the machine and the X-ray is taken It reduces the time involved from about five minutes an X-ray to a possible four X rays a minute, operators of the machine said

The photo timer measures the lumination passing through the person being X-rayed and at the correct time snaps a 35 millimeter camera enclosed in the machine

A chest specialist passes the roll of film through a device that enlarges it and the X-rays are read

When one is found showing some defect, the person is notified and a large-size X-ray is taken

All persons submitting to an X-ray are notified of the results by the Richland County Tuberculosis association in a period of about two weeks.

It has been the experience of the Mansfield - Richland County Health department that about one and a half per cent of the persons X-rayed have some lung or heart disorder that shows in the picture.

The mobile unit and follow up X-rays when necessary, are financed from contributions to the Richland County Tuberculosis association's annual Christmas seal sale

Postpone Two Galion Power Case Hearings

BUCYRUS—Postponement of hearings of two cases arising out of Galion's electric power controversy was announced here today by Common Pleas Judge C U Ahl

The hearings which were scheduled for Thursday, April 28 have been postponed until May 3 or possibly May 19, Judge Ahl reported The postponement was made because Robert Spurlock, Bucyrus attorney associated in the case will appear before the Third District Court of Appeals on the April date.

Judge Ahl said the next open date is May 3 but if a case, scheduled for May 2, is not completed in a day the hearings will be delayed until May 19

The controversial power issue which has been in the courts here since last November, involves the furnishing of electric power for two Galion industries by the Ohio Public Service Co The city at present is served by a municipality-owned light and power plant

12 Boys Sign Up For Trip To North Woods In July

Twelve boys already have signed up for the YMCA Canadian North Woods trip in July, Maurice W. Taylor, "Y" general secretary, said yesterday.

The group of 18 campers, fathers and sons, and four leaders will leave Mansfield July 27 and return Aug. 8. The campers this year will cover the same area as in 1948. They will go to the Cleveland YMCA camp on Lake Temagami, 300 miles north of Toronto.

Leading the group will be Robert Y. Davis while Roy Miles will assist him.

Already signed up are Douglas Brunk, Phillip Casto, James Endriss, Jack Welsh, Donald McFarland, Ronald Roberts, Maurice Stretch, Thomas Hansberger, Hugh Meilinger, Edwin Davison, Charles Davison, and Michael Rupp.

The "Y" activity is a father and son project. All boys under 14 years of age must be accompanied by their fathers. Fathers of boys over 14 may go along if they prefer.

Gets Term In Ohio Pen

Dwight Cherry, 50, of Zanesville, convicted of possessing burglar's tools, was sentenced to one to five years in the Ohio penitentiary yesterday at Zanesville.

Cherry admitted numerous school burglaries, including the burglary of the Lexington school in January, according to sheriff's deputies.

A companion, Robert J. Kennedy, 21, of Mt. Vernon, was sent to the reformatory for an indeterminate period on a similar charge.

Ohioans Seek School Funds

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two Ohioans plan to introduce legislation soon calling for $250,000,000 in grants to the states for construction of public school facilities.

Sponsors of the measure will be Rep. Clarence J. Brown and Senator Bricker, both Republicans. They say the construction is badly needed.

The money would be allotted to the states on the basis of the relative size of their respective school populations.

In addition to the construction grants, the bill would provide another $3,000,000 for planning of school buildings under the program.

More Parking Space Real Need

SELDOM has a more controversial question bobbed up in Mansfield than that which touches on the re-routing of highways so as to permit transient traffic to by-pass city streets by going AROUND instead of THROUGH Mansfield.

Arguments favorable to this proposal rest almost entirely on traffic congestion due to lack of sufficient off-street parking space in down-town Mansfield, as there could be no other reason for wishing to detour motorists around the city rather than giving them opportunity to have a look at Mansfield as they are passing through—and possibly stopping for a night, a meal, or do some shopping in local stores.

First attention, it would appear, before any drastic and costly re-routing program is approved, would be to survey the possibilities of acquiring space suited to public parking and also to consider the feasibility of financing a parking garage of sufficient size to accommodate a large number of cars.

Routing of through truck traffic away from busy thoroughfares would prove a distinct advantage, but to do this with passenger cars would be detrimental to many interests which contribute largely to the prosperity of this community and such a move should be given careful thought from all angles before any commitments are made.

Russia Doesn't Inspire Confidence

IT IS CERTAINLY encouraging to have American officials in Washington declare their belief that Russia may be getting ready to ease off the cold war. These officials surely should be in a position to know what they are talking about.

However, reason and experience dictate that any "easing of the cold war" should be viewed with moderate skepticism. Moscow-led left-wingers in this country for some time have been demanding loudly that the United States seek some kind of rapprochement with Russia. They continue to do so.

By now, Yalta and Potsdam and Tehran and the meetings of foreign ministers since the war should have taught us that Russia can be expected to take any concession made by the West, not as our share of a compromise but simply as a victory for Soviet diplomacy.

Indeed, the "settlement" being hinted and urged now could be just another way by which the Russians seek to win points they have been unable to gain in the cold war.

Moreover, observation of Russian actions in the recent past would indicate that easing of the current struggle might well be used only as a smoke screen for operations of some other kind designed to advance the communist dictatorship's aims of world domination.

A settlement that is really a settlement would be most welcome. But the Western nations would be foolish, now that they are clearly winning the cold war, to fall for a surface agreement which the Soviets would merely turn to their own expansionist ends.

Salvation Army Deserves Help

THE SALVATION ARMY plays an outstanding role in the over-all drama of caring for the needy in Mansfield. Its activities are dove-tailed carefully with those of the other Red Feather agencies of the Community Chest from which it derives its operating funds.

The Chest, however, is not able to handle such expense items as now confront the advisory board and administrators of the Salvation Army. Renovation, too long delayed, must be made. A new heating plant is badly needed. The gymnasium requires a new floor. There is painting to be done. And the roof must be repaired.

A balance of slightly more than $2,000 of the original mortgage on the building remains. It would be good business to pay this off.

All these things can be accomplished, it is estimated, for approximately $15,000. No concerted public drive is being made. But contributions are requested from all who care to help, as from the 1,700 individuals who have been approached by letter.

The plan has been approved by the Citizens Committee on Social Survey, which made a careful study of the Salvation Army request; and the Manufacturers' club has agreed to assist in the financing.

It is now up to Mansfielders generally to put over this project which may be minor in total cost as related to other drives but which is of major importance to the city's welfare program.

Aftermath of Pyramid Clubs

FROM Frankfort, Ky., comes word that victims of the Pyramid club racket are now being given an opportunity to recoup their loss by joining the "Get Even Society," which also imitates the old chain letter plan of attracting suckers.

According to a United Press dispatch from Frankfort, "the society hit the state capitol building today, and one state official said he had received the promised $27 less than two hours after joining."

But as the Pyramid club gyp seems to have by-passed Mansfield entirely, there will be no need for development of the "Get Even Society" here.

Claude Callan presents the idea: "You should be happy if your daughter's beau can't get the family car. A boy with such smart parents is sure to make a fine man."

Greaseless salted peanuts are being promised for bridge players—to avoid soiling the cards . . . and thus are long-felt-wants gradually being supplied.

Whether he is an "eccentric recluse" or a "crazy hermit" seems to depend on the amount of money he has.

What Some Other People Are Saying

SENATOR RALPH FLANDERS, Vermont Republican: "Guided missiles and remotely-controlled planes should be used to rain pamphlets and handbills on the Russian citizens, so they may learn why the rest of the world fears Russia and arms against it."

* * *

SENATOR ROBERT TAFT, Ohio Republican: "I think a program by one nation to arm a great many other nations would be a direct violation of the United Nations Charter—both the spirit and the letter of the Charter."

Raymond Moley's Analysis

American Watch Industry Is Disturbed

AMONG the various American industries that will claim protection as Europe increases its production, our watch industry can make a very special case. In a sense, that industry was a war hero. Without help, it may become a peace casualty.

When this country gave priority to defense and later to war, the American watch industry was drafted for precision instruments of various kinds. Watchmakers virtually discontinued manufacturing for the civilian market.

At the end of the war, Swiss competition had largely taken over. Swiss watches imported into the United States in 1934 numbered 830,000. In 1948 this number had risen tenfold.

In 1931-35 the Swiss share of the American market was 47 per cent; in 1948 it was 77 per cent. The loss of the market during the war has been projected through nearly four years of peace.

In the American industry there are three sorts of enterprises: importers who bring finished watches almost exclusively from Switzerland; firms that import movements and other parts and assemble the finished product for our market; American firms that make the entire watch here.

Some American firms have branch establishments in Europe; others combine assembling here with home production.

* * *

Higher Labor Costs.

AMERICAN firms have had varying degrees of success since the end of the war. Two old and distinguished firms — Hamilton and Elgin — showed a good profit last year, although Hamilton fell off somewhat from 1947.

Waltham has had very serious trouble not altogether attributable to foreign competition. It has been able to effect a reorganization through the aid of an RFC loan. The U. S. Time Corporation in Waterbury has laid off more than 2,000 workers since August of last year.

The general situation in consumer buying has affected watches as well as other lines. Watch sales last month were more than 15 per cent less than in the same month last year.

In the watch business there is close cooperation between the companies and the union in urging protection against cheaper European production. It has been pointed out that wages in Switzerland, figured in American money, are about half of those in the United States.

The colorful and forceful Walter Cenerazzo, head of the watch workers' union, points out that an American watch of a specific type, costing $13, costs exactly half that in Switzerland, and the duty covers only about $2 of the difference.

The labor differential is extremely important in the watch business, since labor accounts for more than half the cost of making a watch.

Since we are approaching a decline in employment, it may be expected that organized labor will become more and more concerned with competition with cheaper wages abroad.

The more ardent advocates of tariff protection will ultimately be the leaders of labor, especially in highly skilled trades like watchmaking.

Frankly Speaking

Talkfest Takes Time

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — I'd be a pretty puzzled pigeon if I'd been sitting out in the middle of the United States the past two weeks, trying to figure out Congress.

The talkative Senate with only 96 members, took two weeks to approve the Marshall Plan for Europe for another year; but the House with 435 members took only about 17 hours.

For those two weeks the Senate spent almost every minute haggling over the Marshall Plan; except for the 71 hours on the plan, the House used the two weeks to race through a lot of other things.

The reason: In the Senate there's no limit on debate; in the House there is.

Of course, if House debate weren't limited, its 435 members could use up a whole session debating one bill. So gabbiness has to be limited there.

The Senate, whose 96 dignified members bend over backwards being polite to one another, wants no gag on talking and feels it still can gets its work done.

That's debatable. If the Senate keeps up its present slow rate, it's doubtful much of the program President Truman promised the voters last November can get through. But, then, it's doubtful much of it would be passed anyway.

* * *

More Talk Than Action.

ALTOGETHER now the Senate has been talking about six weeks. Except for a couple of days spent on passing new rent controls, the Senate has used those weeks on just two main subjects: Civil rights and the Marshall Plan. Everything else had to wait.

It used up between three weeks and a month in a filibuster on the civil rights program. That was shoved aside in the end and probably suffered a mortal blow for the rest of this session.

Then, after a brief pause to vote for 15 months more or rent controls, the Senate turned to the Marshall Plan and talked till last week-end.

When it got into the plan there were long discourses that touched only remotely on it. And there were almost endless discourses on amendments, of which there were plenty.

Amendments are changes which a senator suggests be made in a bill. For instance, Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, offered one to cut Marshall Plan spending 10 per cent. That was defeated—for the time being, anyway.

So, besides talking for days on the Marshall Plan itself, the Senate talked for days on the amendments.

It was different in the House. There amendments were offered, too, but on some of them each congressman who wanted to speak was limited to about 50 seconds.

But even after all the talk in both houses, the last word hasn't been said on the Marshall Plan.

For all both houses did was approve letting the Marshall Plan continue for another year. But—and this is important—it hasn't voted any money to keep it going.

It will get around to voting on the money in a few weeks. That will certainly mean more Senate debate and more proposals to cut down the money for it. The House, of course, will do a quicker job.

Timely Editorial

To Split or Not—

That old question of the split infinitives has reared its ugly head again. This time, Prof. Ernest Samuels of Northwestern university, in a talk before college English teachers, joins us in the ranks of the pro-splitters.

If the sentence sounds better and flows more easily, go ahead and split, he says. Furthermore, he puts his blessing on "It is me," instead of the stiffer, "It is I." And he has no objections to "To who" instead of "to whom."

All this makes good sense, in our opinion. The language is found to change gradually. It ought to change in the direction of being easier, more natural and, above all, more understandable.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

Dave Boone Says:

HERBERT HOOVER is making himself mighty unpopular in Washington. He's showing 'em how to save money. That sort of thing ain't easy to forgive these days.

* * *

Herbert just pointed out how the government could save at least a billion and a half dollars in its armed services budgets. And without cutting out a single plate of canned eggs!

* * *

But he won't get far. Even voicing the idea of saving one or two billion dollars anywhere in our government is enough to get you run out of Washington on a rail.

* * *

I predict that not only will the whole idea of economy and common sense get Hoover in a jam but that it will lead to the abolition of simple arithmetic by Congress.

Easter Vacation Is 'Refresher Course'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Despite talk about the boys "needing a rest," real story behind the 10-day Easter recess of the House, beginning today, is that Speaker Sam Rayburn and majority leader John McCormack are sending their charges home for a "refresher" course.

Rayburn and McCormack are chiefly concerned over another GOP Dixie coalition against repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, and they think some elbow-rubbing with the folks at home is the best preventive.

The strategy applies to Republicans from industrial districts as well as Democrats.

Meantime, local AFL and CIO leaders are planning to give the returning politcos a stiff workout during the 10-day "vacation."

Rayburn and McCormack are keenly aware that the Taft-Hartley vote will be a crucial test they can't afford to lose, if they are to keep northern city Democrats in line on other administration measures.

Ever since the GOP-Dixie coalition against rent control, there has been talk of a northern "revolt," or a coalition-in-reverse, in which northern Democrats would gang up with Republicans to block southern farm bills.

* * *

Rumbles of Revolt.

AT A DINNER meeting with north and south freshmen Democrats last week, Rayburn and McCormack heard increasing rumbles of "retaliation" against southern coalitionists. This wasn't all cloakroom whispers. Quite a number of big-city Democrats, who believe in carrying out Truman campaign promises, have spoken out openly.

Among them are freshmen Democrats Anthony Tauriello of Buffalo, N. Y., and Earl Wagner of Cincinnati, who angrily told McCormack the time had come to "stop appeasing and start hitting back" at southern opponents of the Fair Deal program.

"I've had enough," bluntly asserted Tauriello. "I was elected on the Truman program, and I believe in the whole program. I'm tired of seeing the program delayed and undermined by members of my own party. A lot of us think it's time to start retaliating."

At the dinner, Rayburn and McCormack made strong pleas for harmony. Since then the grumbling has somewhat subsided.

* * *

Republican Hope.

OREGON'S bush-browed Senator Wayne Morse, considered a black sheep by Old Guard Republicans, nevertheless has a strong though secret following in Congress.

This group not only takes its political cues from Morse, but is quietly boosting him for the vice presidency in 1952. He is the only Republican, they feel, who can take votes away from the Democrats in their greatest stronghold—labor.

Leaders of the Morse movement include such congressmen as John Phillips of California, H. R. Gross of Iowa and James Golden of Kentucky — all progressive Republicans. Morse, himself, didn't learn of their support until he was invited to talk off-the-record the other day before a gathering of about 20 Republican congressmen.

With characteristic bluntness, Morse tore into the ills of the Republican party.

"This coalition with the Southern Democrats is costly," he thundered. "We are now labeled the anti-human rights party."

The Oregon senator went on to denounce his party's leadership.

"I speak only of the Senate," he declared, "but in the Senate, we have a few who hold policy meetings. The rest of us read about it next morning in the papers and are called together at 10 o'clock to confirm it."

He accused GOP leaders in Congress of playing turtle during the last election.

"It wasn't Dewey's job to defend the 80th Congress," said Morse.

"It was up to our top leaders in Congress. A lot of them suffered political laryngitis."

As for the GOP stand on labor, Morse snorted: "We've got an anti-labor label on our party, and we'll keep it until we liberalize the Taft-Hartley Law.

"Why," he added, "the payment of $7,500 for drafting the Taft-Hartley Law is a subject of discussion in every local union in America."

* * *

Vice-Presidential Humor.

VICE PRESIDENT Alben Barkley brought down the house with this story at President Truman's "harmony" dinner with freshmen congressional Democrats. Here is the Barkley story:

A minister sermonizing to his flock on the virtues of friendship inquired if there were any members of the congregation who could honestly say they had no enemies. An aged man with a long beard arose in the rear of the church.

"Ah, I am glad to see that there is at least one among us who can answer my question," beamed the minister. "How old are you, sir?"

"One hundred and four years."

"That's truly remarkable," said the reverend. "Do you mind telling us how you have managed to be without enemies in such a long life span?"

"Because," said the old man, "I outlived them all."

Wanted: Hiding Place

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK — There is a beautiful old Negro spiritual whose refrain is "No Hidin' Place Down Here."

I feel singularly in tune with this sentiment today.

Since the advent of the atom bomb, any man with a grain of sense has been searching around to find himself a better 'ole. Until 24-hours ago, I had my hiding place staked out, ready and waiting for the advent of the third or atomic world war.

I had planned to high-tail it out to Idaho in a cloud of dust until the postman rang twice yesterday, with the ring of doom, if only I had recognized the sound.

For this fleet messenger, whom neither rain nor sleet nor radioactive cloud can stay in the swift completion of his appointed rounds, brought word from home that the Atomic Energy Commission is going to build a $500,000,000 reactor plant in southeastern Idaho.

The money is appropriated, the site has been acquired and work will soon begin in transforming this better 'ole into a prime target for the enemy in any future global wars.

As a taxpayer and an expatriate who still retains his membership privileges in Idaho, I resent this dastardly invasion of my home state on the part of Uncle Sam and his atomic energy commission.

Is nothing sacred? Where, I ask the big brains, are the likes of me to hide when the guided missiles, the atom bombs and the bacteriological tid-bits start falling on New York, Washington, Detroit, et al, in the next war?

In case the boys at the Pentagon have not yet got around to file 2'x-349-6A3-104FOB, I traded in my war correspondent's suit sometime ago for two house dresses and a pair of coveralls suitable for digging in the garden.

* * *

Plans Are Disarranged.

I PLAN to sit out this next war, largely because the boys have gotten too rough for me. Air raids I could stand. Submarines I could endure. Shot and shell I could manage to digest. But this atom stuff is out of my class. I have been overmatched and I know it. Some big, brave girl can have my place in the war correspondents' corps in the next fracas.

I aim to sit this one out, and where I aimed to sit it out—until 24-hours ago— was Idaho. Now I have to start hunting all over again for a good, proper cage with decent ventilation and a good southern exposure.

Until the government came along and popped this atomic plant down near Arco and only a hoot and a holler from Pocatello, Idaho was a big, safe place composed equally of lyrically beautiful, soaring mountains, high, flat plateaus covered with sage brush, horned toads and rattle snakes, and irrigated valleys more fertile than the Nile.

Its chief exports for many years have been about equally divided between baked potatoes and jockeys. Politically, it runs the gamut from the late Senator William Borah to the present Senator Glen Taylor, running mate of Henry Wallace in the last presidential election.

In other words, until the Atomic Energy Commission started messing around, Idaho was the kind of place on which no enemy, in his right mind, would waste a bomb.

It makes me doubly nervous to read the newspaper clippings in the letter from home—clippings telling of the wild rejoicing in Arco and surrounding communities when the government announced it was about to spend a half-billion bucks in the desert on a reactor station.

The citizens of Arco formed a torch light procession and whooped and hollered through the streets in rejoicing that so much federal manna had dropped in their district.

But when the rejoicing is over and the hangover cured, I kinda hanker to know where the citizens of Idaho will find a better 'ole. My interest is more than cursory. If they find a good hiding place, I aim to string along with 'em.

Farmer's Diary

Those Friendly Trees

By CALVIN A. BYERS

DRIVING through the country—my wife and I—we saw a great oak tree in a farmer's pasture with a strange clutter of boards and crudely fastened timbers upon the lower limbs.

Some boys and girls had been playing tree-house. There seemed to be two hide-aways there, one on each side of the tree. Before all the leaves were off, last fall, it must have been a fine secluded place to play or read.

I suppose every child remembers one certain tree above all others. In my own case, it was a walnut tree that spread its great dark branches outside my bedroom windows. The earth beneath was black, rich, mellow and moist. Every fall the nuts showered down and we gathered them and battered off the outer husks with stained brown fingers, then carried the rough hard fruits to the attic to dry.

Sometimes we dried them first, in the sun, on the roof of the summer kitchen. Once, when we had some drying there, and constructed a catwalk across by means of a strong narrow plank, I walked in my sleep from the tree to the plank, to the summer house roof, and back again. Perhaps I had eaten something that did not agree with me — my mother never knew.

She happened to be in the yard, and saw me go, silhouetted against the night sky. Asked about the trip next morning, I remembered nothing of it. (Green walnuts should not be eaten by small boys.)

My companion recalled the gigantic willow that stood for so many years out by the stable on the old home farm. It was really twins—a divided truck on one arching branch of which was a big rope swing. It shaded the whole barnyard.

Here, on a summer day, it was possible for a half-grown girl to climb into the shelter of a leafy bower and be fairly comfortable with a book while hidden from view, but insistent calls to do dishes sometimes marred the tranquility, so that she wished the tree could be moved farther away.

Trees are a heritage. All children need them. Root and branch, they build themselves into the family life of the ones they shelter and shade. They mean home to the heart.

To plant a tree, to train a child, these are, I think, the two most lasting bits of work a man may do. Let us train our children to appreciate trees.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THE BILL to ban popcorn and peanuts in Oregon movie houses is causing some concern in Hollywood . . . Pictures may have to be improved to compensate.

* * *

But the films have come a long way since people first started going to the movies because it was one place they could dispose of peanut shucks in the dark.

* * *

And many a theater has been saved when the product in the lobby was crackerjack and the product on the screen was N O T.

* * *

In fact the Metropolitan opera house which has no peanut-roaster in the lobby is running benefits for Verdi's works but Selznick's are still going it alone.

* * *

As between genuine pearls around the patron's necks and genuine peanut shucks under their feet the payoff is still in peanuts.

* * *

And the whole nation is watching this possible infringement on our right to crunch and crackle.

Truman Hints Important Overseas Posts Due for Shakeup

Declines to Comment On Moscow Job

Admiral Kirk Figures In Talk

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman indicated yesterday he and Secretary of State Acheson are considering a number of top diplomatic changes in Europe.

In addition to the expected transfer of Adm. Alan G. Kirk from Brussels to Moscow, these may include replacements for Ambassadors Jefferson Caffrey at Paris and Lewis Douglas at London.

At his news conference, Mr. Truman was asked whether he intends to change ambassadors to either France or Belgium. He replied he and the secretary of state are discussing ambassadorships and appointments will be announced when they are decided upon.

He had nothing to say on questions about the prospective appointment of Ambassador Kirk to Moscow, succeeding Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who now is commanding the First Army in New York.

Actually a large number of important changes are expected in coming weeks. According to well informed speculation these include the reassignment of Ambassador Caffrey to some new post, possibly Cairo in the event that Stanton Griffis is shifted from that job.

Caffrey may be replaced by David K. Bruce, presently in Paris for the economic cooperation administration.

Other expected changes include:

Acceptance of Douglas' resignation in two or three months, depending somewhat on the outcome of an injury suffered when a fish hook caught him in an eye.

Assignment of Charles E. Bohlen, present counselor in the State department. an important policy making job, to Paris as counselor of embassy.

Transfer of Walworth Barber from directorship of the division of southern European affairs in the State department to Moscow as counselor of embassy.

Another post of great importance for which Mr. Truman and Acheson soon will have to find a man is the prospective new job of high commissioner in Germany. This job will be created when the western occupation powers switch from military to civilian control in Germany probably next summer.

Milk Price Cut 1 Cent

Mansfield milk prices will go down one cent a quart tomorrow morning, Mansfield dairies said today. The price cut will bring regular milk prices down to 18 cents a quart. Homogenized milk will sell for 19 cents a quart, the usual one cent more than regular. Dairymen said ice cream and all other milk prices would decrease accordingly.

However, even with the one-cent drop, milk prices here will be one cent higher than in Ashland, Cleveland, Galion, and other northern Ohio cities.

Ashland dairies today announced milk prices will drop a cent a quart tomorrow for the second one-cent cut this month. Regular milk will be 17 cents a quart, homogenized 18 cents a quart.

Cleveland's second one-cent drop was announced Monday, and Galion dairies announced a two-cent drop Tuesday. Milk in both these cities is now selling for 17 cents a quart.

Mansfield dairymen said they expected milk prices here to drop another cent by May 1, as pastures grow more luxuriant and milk output increases.

Miss Dorothy Hulit Changes Name to Mrs. E. R. Wilging

Miss Dorothy Maxine Hulit became the bride of Eugene R. Wilging, April 10, in an open church ceremony at the Park Avenue Baptist church with the Rev. William M. Taylor officiating for the double ring service.

The bride is the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hulit, R. D. 2. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Karl Wilging, R. D. 3.

Mrs. R. B. Tandy presided at the organ for the ceremony while Miss Jean Turner served as soloist. Palms, white gladiolus, carnations and twin candelabra decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a bouffant-skirted bridal dress with a bateau neckline and fitted long sleeves. The tunic effect of her bodice fell into a graceful train. She wore a fingertip length veil held by a beaded headpiece. The gown was made by the bride's mother. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls. She carried a pink rose bud corsage surrounded by white daisies, which topped a white Bible.

Geraldine Sauder, a close friend of the bride attending school at Bowling Green university, served as her only attendant. She wore a gown patterned after the bride except for her short sleeves and attached tunic made of lavendar taffeta. She wore an open crown picture hat surrounded by a wreath of daisies. Her mitts matched her gown. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and yellow carnations tied with lavender streamers.

The bride's mother wore a black print dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Wilging wore a black dress with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Robert Wilging, attending Ohio University, brother of the bridegroom, served as his best man. William Estip, friend of the couple, and Russel Hulit, brother of the bride, served as ushers.

A reception for 150 guests, in the church parlors, immediately followed the ceremony. The candle lit table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake surrounded by daisies and ferns. Presiding at the table were Helen, Clara and Josephine Sauder, Virginia White, and Marilyn Osborn and Ann Shafer of Bowling Green.

For their wedding trip to Columbus, the bride wore a navy blue suit with white accessories and a pink rosebud corsage. They will be at home at R. D. 3 after their trip. The bride is a graduate of Madison high school. Mr. Wilging is also a graduate of Madison and is employed as an attendant at Walter Bodley service station. Out of town guests were present from Bowling Green and Ashland.

Bobby-Soxers Are the Backbone Of Baby Sitting Business

Teen-agers — although criticized for inexperience and labeled "irresponsibles" — are the backbone of the baby sitting industry.

Virginia Richards, in the April Coronet article, THIS BABY SITTING BUSINESS, reports what takes place when teen-agers take over in the home

The author declares "Sitters everywhere, are united in their verdict against housework. Only three girls in a group of 500 at the high school in Cheyenne, Wyoming will take on household chores, while most organized bobby-soxers rule out even a bit of dusting"

Coronet reports that many teen-agers organize into regular sitting clubs One group of girls furnishes a club agreement which states that the baby sitter will wash, bathe and put the youngsters to bed for 30 cents an hour until 11 p m, when the rate goes up to 35 cents Dishes come extra

The girls agree not to play the radio or entertain friends without permission. In turn, they expect adequate heat, desk space, transportation home after dark and notification of a delayed return by the parents.

Another group, called the Bibs, list these requirements for perspective sitters A girl must be 14 or over and have passing grades to join, and her parents or guardian must designate when, how long, how late and how many times a week she can sit

April Coronet concludes with the following pledge of a young girls' sitting club: "I have one of the most responsible jobs in the world. I am in charge of a priceless possession I am fully aware that a child's life is in my hands. I will do all in my power to protect that life"

Don't Regret Mess of Toys

Mother may register some not-so-faint regrets at the welter of toys that clutter up the living room

But she really shouldn't, says A C Gilbert, Jr, toy manufacturer of New Haven, Conn The more toys Junior has, the better the investment in his future, particularly if they are of the construction and educational type

A great variety of playthings gives the child a greater chance to discover interests, aptitudes and talents At the same time, neighborhood children find added incentives to drop in and visit Friendships are encouraged and the idea for teamwork and sharing gets across unobtrusively A good part of a child's fun is playing with some one else

However, mother should make an effort to at least spare a closet or provide a chest where toys may be carefully stored when not in use The child and his friends can get a lot of mileage from toys properly handled and cared for

One of the fundamentals, stresses Mr Gilbert, is to provide substantial toys that no not break easily.

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves in a period of perplexity and confusion, in which the mind and the emotions may be pulling in different directions Important matters are up for decision, and while the mind is profound, serious and farseeing, yet more personal, social, sentimental or ambitious, drives may stress the intimate element rather than the more providential Finances, career, as well as professional, social and romantic contacts may be jeopardized by a false step or snap judgments. Turkish Envoy Asks Alliance

Talks to President

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Turkish Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak called yesterday for a Mediterranean alliance to bolster world security, saying the North Atlantic treaty alone is not enough to maintain peace in Europe. Turkey is not a member of the North Atlantic treaty.

Sadak made his statement at a news conference soon after President Truman told newsmen, in effect, that he and Sadak had not discussed a "Mediterranean pact" at a White House meeting.

Mr. Truman said their meeting involved only a courtesy call and receipt of a message of felicitations from the President of Turkey.

"Turkey considers the Atlantic Pact insufficient in some aspects for maintenance of Peace on the continent of Europe," Sadak told reporters. "She believes and wishes that Turkish security should also be guaranteed by another regional pact which would be linked to the Atlantic Pact."

Sadak said he believes "the U. S. will be a participant in and favor such a pact."

He refused to say directly that he had discussed the proposed alliance during talks here with Secretary of State Dean Acheson and President Truman.

He said development of the proposed Mediterranean alliance "must await events." He indicated that no steps would be taken until the Atlantic Pact is ratified.

Sadak said Turkey "morally considers herself tied with the policy of the nations that have concluded the Atlantic Pact."

"Our ties with the U. S. are morally and materially as strong as though we were a member of the Atlantic community," he said.

Revenue Off 13 Per Cent

Sales tax receipts in Richland county show a loss of 13.4 per cent so far this year, compared with the corresponding 1948 period.

Although the week ended April 2 showed a slight gain over the same period last year, the total for the first three months of the year is $49,851 less than last year, a report released today by State Treasurer Don H. Ebright showed.

Richland county's sales tax receipts for the week ended April 2 were $34,934. This figure is $83.87 over the collections for the same period last year.

Area counties showed the following increase or decrease for the first three months of the year.

Ashland, down 4.2 per cent; Crawford, down 11.2 per cent; Holmes, up 4.7 per cent; Huron, up .9 of one per cent; Knox, off .2 of one per cent; Morrow, up 1.4 per cent.

Cook sauerkraut with a diced apple and a little onion; flavor with salt, pepper and sugar and add a little butter or margarine. This is a good vegetable dish to serve with meat loaf and oven-browned potatoes.

Tiny Tims and V-2's Pack Punch

Sees Guided Missiles In Important Role

By SAM B. BEAUDRY

SAN DIEGO, CAL. — What is the truth about guided missiles?

Guided missiles may dominate the next war, if heaven help us, one does begin. During the final phases of World War II the Germans succeeded in developing some 138 missiles, accessories and modifications, their greatest success coming in the fields of long-range bombardment and anti-aircraft defense.

Simplest basic category of guided missiles, which describes the location of the launching device and the target, includes:

1 — Surface-to-surface.
2 — Air-to-surface.
3 — Surface-to-air.
4 — Air-to-air.

Other important factors in classifying guided missiles are types of propulsion; methods of guidance and control; range and speed; launching system, and type of warhead.

An explosive, to be effective, must reach its destination — and at a speed which should make it impossible to intercept. Guided missiles depend for their propulsion upon some form of jet drive.

Jets, by now becoming familiar to the man-in-the-street, are roughly divided into rocket, turbo, ram and pulse groups.

Rockets carry all their fuel and oxygen within the body of the rocket itself, and if necessary could operate in a vacuum or beyond the earth's atmosphere.

Automatic devices control combustion — and speed — by regulating the flow of liquids. The "motor" combines a combustion chamber and an exit nozzle.

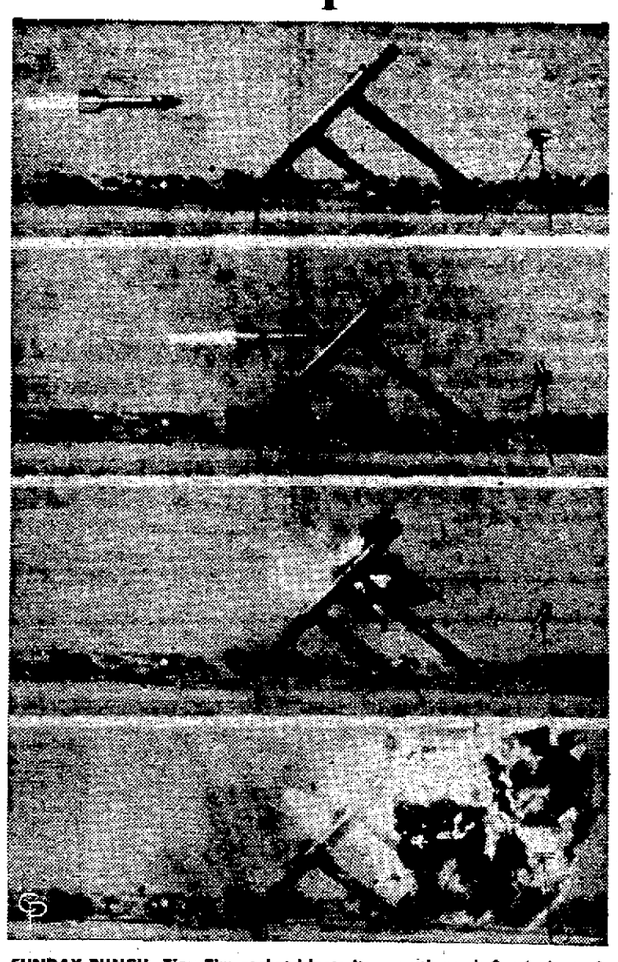
Rockets are handicapped by the fact that they must carry their own oxygen, for at the altitudes at which they operate there is no oxygen, or sufficient oxygen, in the atmosphere to sustain the fire of combustion.

The German V-2, probably still unsurpassed as an operational missile, delivered on London a one-ton bomb-load, but weighted 31,400 pounds at launching. It required 800 pounds of fuel and 11,000 pounds of liquid oxygen.

The weight of a projectile naturally increases with range, thus requiring more fuel, which in turn requires more weight which demands more power which again calls for more fuel — a sort of mathematical dog-chasing-its-tail situation.

Range limit of V-2 rockets is believed to be about 450 miles with present types of fuel and construction materials.

Turbo-jet powered missiles utilize a gas turbine to drive an axial-flow or centrifugal-flow air compressor mounted on a common shaft. Air is sucked into the openings of the powerplant, and compressed at high temperature.



SUNDAY PUNCH—Tiny Tim rocket blasts its way through five-inch steel.

Ram-jets, best-known primarily American development in the international jet power race, offer effective propulsion at from 1,200 to 2,500 miles per hour. They have no moving parts.

There are only three essential parts: a diffuser, combustion chamber and exhaust nozzle. They have no means of compressing air before receiving it into the combustion chamber, so the ram-jets must be accelerated by some form of booster or aircraft lift to speeds sufficient to build up proper operating pressure at the intake. This is roughly 300 mph.

Guidance problems are the heart of the entire program, and the nation first achieving a positive and practical means of controlling the weapons in flight may well dominate the international scene.

A macabre example of "homing" resulted early in the war in Russia when the Soviets trained dogs to get their food only under tanks and armored vehicles — nowhere else.

When the habit-pattern had been firmly fixed, the Russians strapped explosive to the dogs; fitted the charges with detonators which would set off when any upright metal rod touched the underside of a tank. Packs of the dogs, so equipped were restrained, until, half-starved, they were finally released near German tank parts.

Launching the missile constitutes an extremely difficult problem. The terrific heats generated as the rocket forces ignite require carefully planned launching areas with types of catapult, ramp or rail designed to suit the particular guided missile.

The launching site may be a ground station, aboard a ship at sea, or on an airplane in flight. Some speculation has even been reported concerning stratospheric platforms floating beyond the earth's gravitational pull.

Regardless of problems, swift development of the entire guided missile field is certain, with all the nations of the world pouring wealth and brains into the research race.

Claims Reds Would Incite Suspicion By UN Charges

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N. Y. — (INS) — Britain's Hector McNeil accused Russia yesterday of deliberately placing false charges before the United Nations "to promote suspicion and anxiety."

McNeil made the charge in defending the North Atlantic pact against the angry attack on the treaty by Gromyko, who called it an instrument of war aimed at Russia.

The young British labor leader and chief assistant of Foreign Secretary Bevin rebuked Russia and Gromyko in particular for playing havoc with the assembly agenda by raising any issue which suits them.

McNeil asserted that Gromyko's attack on the Atlantic pact was linked with the veto discussion to divert attention from the "vile record" Russia has in U. N. on that point.

McNeil said he had hoped Gromyko's new office would endow him with new methods and procedures "but we see now if his office is new then his methods are the same old stuff!"

The Scotsman pointed his finger at the Soviet row of seats, where sat Gromyko, Yakov Malik and Alexander Panyushkin. A few seats away were the U. S. delegation including Warren R. Austin, John Foster Dulles, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Philip C. Jessup.

"I expect," McNeil added bitingly, "that every time the Soviet Union finds itself in a tight corner, we shall meet fresh—or rather stale—outbursts on proceedings which we call the Atlantic pact."

McNeil then flayed Russia for ...ling all o...s "black, wicked, fascist and war-mongers" while the Soviet Union is always "lily-white and unsullied."

The Page Story

Touched with historical romance, this inspiring story really began shortly after the Civil War. William B. Page, father of the founder of The Page Dairy was summoned to Switzerland by his brother Charles, then U. S. Minister in President Lincoln's cabinet. There, in the picturesque land of mountains and dairies, the Page brothers observed the high quality standards of the milk industry, and brought back to America the inspiration and technique for producing top-quality dairy products.

President-Founder
The Page Dairy Co.

William Page's son, Henry was in the dairy business practically from the day he was born. During his high school days, he owned and operated a small dairy in Dixon, Illinois. Then on April 13, 1913, in Toledo, Ohio, Henry Page founded The Page Dairy Co. Throughout succeeding years a host of delicious new dairy products have been added to THE PAGE STORY . . . a story written with the help of 2400 dairy farmers who daily provide Page's with pure, fresh milk.

But the wonderful part of THE PAGE STORY is that it has just begun. The Page Dairy Co. is ever striving to provide more nutritious, more flavorful, more economical dairy products for you.

It is in thousands of your homes, where Page's milk, butter and ice cream are almost "family members" that YOU, our customers will help write succeeding chapters of THE PAGE STORY!

Digs Deep to Discover How the Boss Can 'Butter Up' Employes

HOW CAN a boss butter up the hired hands?

This is one problem that never occurred to my simple barefoot mind.

But the other day I let go with a powerful piece about how the ordinary man, given a lifetime or two, could successfully butter up his boss and get a raise. Any boss.

And a fellow came right back at me—one of those strange people who hire other people for a living.

"Listen, Boyle," he said. "You're living in a dead age. The problem in the industrial world today isn't how to butter up the boss to get ahead What the boss has to worry about is how he can get ahead by buttering up his employes."

And the odd gentleman suggested if I were an honest reporter I would investigate immediately. He said I should advise the bosses what they could do to win the warm approval of the men under them who make them look good to the men over them.

Well, for me this was a brand new idea. As a lifelong employe determined to remain one, I had never thought of a boss as a person interested in pleasing me.

I first went to work at a time when people stood in lines for jobs. And I guess that ever since then I have thought of a boss only as something you tried in a vague way to placate . . . by an effort here . . . a performance there . . . as you would a cross child. You know—anything to keep him from being loud.

Certainly I never thought of him trying to do anything more than the small service of showering me with money. Bosses have done that so often I now discourage them from even performing that slight favor.

For I have found that money is only good to spend, and spending money is habit-forming—like living, or puffing marijuana. Or watching television in the hope of something new.

So I have drawn the line at more money. I'll have none of it. And therefore I can't think of anything a boss can do for me except to stay out of my day dreams. I don't want him to blunder into my private world any more than I want to tiptoe into his. To me he is strictly on his own.

★

But some employes aren't the kind of workaday snob I am. I asked a few what they thought a boss could do to butter them up.

And here are their answers:

"Borrow cigarets from them once in a while, so as to make them wonder whether he can afford them a raise."

"When the employes greet him 'Hiya, big boy,' the boss should come back with a heavily emphasized 'Okay, chum.' This will leave them wondering whether he said chum or chump."

"Have his wife stop into the office and bawl him out in public for forgetting to do something he promised. The employes will feel better for thinking he is as henpecked as they are."

"He could have his sons or daughters drop in for pin money—and give to them out of the petty cash box. Every employe would like to dip into the cash box, too. And he does if he can."

"Take up personally all office collections for weddings, birthday roses and funeral wreaths. This will make the employes think he is a regular guy. And it doesn't have to cost him a cent because they won't know whether he contributed anything himself or not."

"Call all employes together once a year for a sandwich luncheon to hear their suggestions. Then they will forget their gripes for another year . . . and he can forget the suggestions."

Looking back over this list, I think there must be a better solution:

Perhaps the boss and the employes he wants to butter up should go together to a psychiatrist, hand in hand, and lie down together on a wide couch. There they could talk over the long question of how the Garden of Eden became a plantation.

But I don't think they will find a reason to change the basic arrangement.

Jury Awards Boy $13,200 Judgment

Sought $50,000 From Bus Firm

A $13,200 judgment verdict was returned yesterday by a common pleas court jury for Charles Daniel Bradley, 11, of Warren road, for injuries suffered when he fell out of a city bus.

The jury deliberated nearly four hours. The hearing began before Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch Monday.

In the action, brought by the boy's mother, Mrs. Zella I. Bradley, against the Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc., she had asked $50,000.

She contended her son had gone to the door of a city bus to get off and that the door opened while the bus rounded a curve, throwing the boy out of the bus onto the pavement.

Mrs. Bradley said her son suffered permanent injuries, and charged the bus company with negligence in that the door failed to operate properly.

The boy was in the hospital three weeks following the accident, which occurred Oct. 10, 1946 on Bowman street, just outside the city.

Mrs. Bradley was represented by Attorneys Joseph A. Bayer and John O'Donnell, and the bus company by Attorneys Robert L. Ross and E. W. Thomas, of Cleveland.

In answer to a written interrogatory of the defense, the jurors said they found the boy was negligent to a lesser degree than the defendant, due to his position in the bus. This opinion was announced with the verdict.

Judge Kalbfleisch then instructed the jurors to return to the jury room and answer "yes" or "no" to the written question as to whether the boy was negligent in any respect that was a direct cause of his injuries. They returned the second time, with a "no" answer to the question.

Plan Play Program

More than 100 members of Richland County's Youth Council met at Liberty park last night to discuss a youth conference to be held April 23 at Ontario.

As conceived, the entertainment goal of the council is for each school district in the county to work out non-commercialized entertainment for the enjoyment of the members. Members of the council hope the main body will be the start toward smaller councils in every school district.

Plans were made for the next meeting sometime in May when a barn dance will be held at the Richland county home barn.

BY-PASS ROUTES—This map prepared by County Engineer Walter E. Rusk shows the traffic by-pass routes under study by the Chamber of Commerce. Most prominently mentioned is the U. S. Route 42 "cut" which would take traffic to the south and east of Mansfield. This proposed route, marked by a heavy line across the lower part of the map, would follow Cook road from Lexington avenue and then a new route would be built to link the road with the Ashland road. Another proposed route, shown at the left side of the map, calls for improvement of Trimble road from U. S. Route 30-N to State Route 39. The plan, it is argued, would speed Shelby traffic coming into Mansfield over Route 39. The dark line through the center of the picture is U. S. Route 30-S which, Rusk believes, should be cut through Central park to relieve congestion in the center of the city. Another idea suggested was the extension of Longview avenue to U. S. Route 30-N, at top left. Then the route would pass through the Fairground and on to State Route 545 and Central avenue. This would expedite local traffic congestion, Rusk said, and should be a local project.

Richland Sportsmen To Act

Want Lake Fishing Curbed

The Richland County Fish and Game Protective association formally leaped into two hot issues on the sporting front at its regular meeting last night at North Lake pavilion.

Members went on record as opposing the present unification bill which was passed by the Ohio House late Wednesday. Only Senate ratification of minor amendments and the signature of Gov. Lausche are required to place the bill on the state statutes as a law.

The group urged that letters be written to representatives and senators in an effort to halt this final program.

The association also discussed the possibilities of defeating the measure by means of a referendum this coming election.

Frank Atwood, president of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, has promised to "place petitions in every hardware store in the state" in an effort to call the referendum vote. The local association agreed to back these petitions.

The other dispute into which the group plunged was the current battle over fishing rights in Sandusky bay. Three pending House bills would eliminate commercial fishing in the bay and at the mouth of the Sandusky river.

Hook and line fishermen claim the commercial fishermen are ruining spawning beds and keeping too many undersized fish. The commercial fishermen retaliate by claiming they aid the hook and line fishermen by removing carp from the bay, thus promoting the growth of water weeds and providing cover and foor for game fish. The Fish and Game association formally approved these three bills and promised a concerted effort to push them through.

A public hearing on the bills is scheduled for early next week in the Ohio House.

Gus Miller, adviser to the Farm committee of the association, reported that oats are being planted on the farm by the new caretaker and that a parking lot will soon be provided for members. Among other projects slated for early action are the planting of numerous trees on the farm grounds; construction of minnow breeding ponds, and extensive work on fences.

Three films were shown at the close of the meeting. The projector was donated for the evening by the Boy Scouts.

Harry Constance, vice president, acted as program chairman for the meeting.

BRAVERY REWARDED

The bravery of a Mansfielder's brother was recognized yesterday when Wayne N. Albee, owner of a Cleveland drug store, received $2,000 for his "remarkable courage." Albee, 63, the brother of Mrs. A. C. Rinella, 295 West Third street, has shot it out with robbers three times. Yesterday he was given a $2,000 check by J. J. Doran, chief of the nation's postal inspectors, as a federal reward for risking his life to protect a postal substation in his drug store. Two Pennsylvania youths tried to rob Albee last Jan. 13. One pulled a gun and forced the druggist to open the safe. As they began to rifle the cash register, Albee took a gun from a drawer and began firing. In the exchange of bullets, Albee was wounded in the left side and one robber was killed. The reward check was welcomed by Albee since his wound cost $1,200 in hospital bills and lost time. Twice before, in 1932 and 1938, Albee fired on men trying to rob his store.

Richland Farm Group Joins Ohio 'Grass Roots' Program

Richland county's part in the Ohio "grass roots" program for farmer-voice in state government moved a step closer to an organized movement yesterday.

The organization meeting of the Richland county legislative committee of the Farm Bureau was held during a luncheon at the Sky club, attended by representatives from each district of the county.

Glenn Sanderlin of near Lexington was elected county spokesman of the group, and Clarence Riggle of Plymouth township was named secretary.

A discussion of county-state legislation and a review of almost 200 bills proposed by the state legislature followed the luncheon. All bills discussed pertained to farm legislature in which the Richland county group hopes to take an active part.

As set up in the state, the "grass roots" action committees of the various counties will be composed of small neighbor groups of farmers who will discuss legislation and then pass on their opinions to the state Farm Bureau.

Fire Drill Backfires

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A group of worried Columbus mothers descended on an ancient elementary school yesterday and staged an unscheduled fire-drill.

The drill was called for after PTA members charged that the four wooden stairways leading to the second floor were inadequate as fire escapes.

The mothers threatened to withdraw their children from the building until conditions were improved.

The were surprised to find, however, that the children were able to abandon the building — using only two stairwys — in 90 seconds.

Police Raid Red 'School'

BUENOS AIRES — (INS) — Argentine police announced yesterday a large-scale raid on an alleged communist "school" where saboteurs assertedly were being trained for violent action.

Twenty-three alleged communists were arrested.

A lengthy police announcement said the saboteurs were being trained "for direct action when special circumstances demanded."

The raid climaxed a series of anti - communist action by the Argentine police apparently in anticipation that the Peron government will outlaw the communist party as soon as the Argentine congress passes the nec essary legislation.

There'll Be Camping, Swimming, and Hiking

Busy Summer Ahead For Youngsters

By EILEEN DEWHURST

It'll be open season on fun for Mansfield young people in a few weeks when school is out and summer recreation programs get under way.

Mansfield youth agencies have been busy making plans for summer programs, and they promise a well-rounded schedule of activities for all age groups.

With the emphasis on outdoors activities, camping will be the major feature of many summer programs. But there also will be playgound programs, swimming and other outdoor sports as well as craftwork, hikes, and dances.

Among the camps which will attract young people from this area are Camp Avery Hand jr., Boy Scout camp southwest of the city; Camp Nelson Dodd, state YMCA camp at Brinkhaven; Camp Niniwan, Girl Scout camp; and Hidden Hollow, Friendly House camp.

Camp Niniwan will be used for overnight troop camping and day-time camping; the other camps will have regular sessions beginning in June and July. In addition to the regular camps there will be a 10-day day-time camp at the YWCA for girls.

Emphasis at all the camps will be on outdoor living. Programs will include swimming, handicraft, games, and hiking.

SOMETHING EVERY DAY

Slogan for this year's YMCA summer program is "Something every day for every boy," and "Y" officials have planned a program to interest all of their 750 young members as well as other boys who wish to share in the fun.

Regular gymnasium, swimming, and crafts classes will be continued during the summer. In addition, there will be bicycle hikes, overnight camping, a hiking club, archery club, "learn to swim" campaign, baseball trips to Cleveland, family picnics, and canoeing at Mifflin lake.

One of the big features of the YMCA program will be a camping trip to the Canadian north woods for boys and their fathers. The "something new" this year is the "Y" Indian guide program, which also is for fathers and sons organized into neighborhood "tribes" for summer outings.

Boys Scouts also will take a Canadian trip to a Boy Scout camp in Quebec. Twenty-five to 30 Eagle Scouts are expected to make the trip this summer. All Boy Scout and Cub troops will remain active during the summer with most of them moving outdoors for their meetings.

Nature study, overnight camping hiking, marksmanship training, and courses in lifesaving and canoeing will occupy most of their time. Swimming and softball also will be high on their list of activities.

In addition to the day-time camp at the YWCA, the Employed Girls club of that organization is planning special picnics and outings for the summer. The group hopes to take some week-end outings if the girls can find a cabin in the area for this purpose.

Many of the Girl Scout troops will continue to meet during the summer and, like the Boy Scouts, their emphasis will be on outdoor living. They will work on outodoor and nature badges, cook out, take hikes and nature trips. Tentative plans also are being made for Girl Scout tennis classes.

Senior Scouts will hold a camporall for the first time. It will be held after school is out with the 11 senior troops camping out for three or four days.

OPEN 9 WEEKS

Although the new Friendly House building is expected to be completed this summer, it will not be ready to be used for the summer program. Softball, games, and other supervised recreation will be held at the playgrounds at the present building. Hidden Hollow camp will be open for nine full weeks this summer, one week longer than in previous years.

To take care of youngsters whose needs are not filled by other groups, the city recreation department offers a playground program at each of the seven city parks.

Along with the regular program of softball, tennis, archery, picnics, and hikes, there will be special events weeks. There also will be contests and treasure and scavenger hikes, art classes at Maple Lake park, swimming parties at Liberty park, and an annual field and track day at Senior high school.

The recreation department plans to sponsor a swimming tournament in cooperation with the Red Cross and also a junior tennis tournament.

In the latter part of June preschool children will be taught safety rules at a "Safety Town" at Prospect school. This is being sponsored by the recreation department in cooperation with the city traffic department.

The park playground programs will include play schools department in cooperation with for small children during the morning sessions.

PLANS NEW PROGRAM

The city recreation department also is working toward the starting of a program for South Boulevards.

Last year the average daily attendance at the seven parks was 754.

Although efforts to establish youth centers for teen-agers in Mansfield have been unsuccessful in the past, joint recreational programs are sponsored by several organizations. During the past years, teen-age recreation centers were started several times, but for some reason they failed to draw large crowds and were eventually closed.

This summer the Hy-Fun club, which is jointly sponsored by the YMCA and the YWCA, will give dances for teen-agers twice weekly. A juke box will furnish music for the Monday night dances and an orchestra will be on hand Friday nights. The dances are held at the YMCA.

The Moose lodge plans to continue its dances for teen-agers every third Thursday night during the summer.

The dances held at the lodge are open to all teen-agers and teen-agers only. Lodge officials have ruled the only adults who may attend are those chaperoning the young people. The lodge pays all expenses for the dances and furnishes an orchestra.

EXPENSIVE ERROR

DETROIT — (UP) — Robert L. Sothern forced three automobiles off the road but did not notice that one was a patrol car. It cost him $50.

U. S. Issues 'Fire Stamps'

"Smokey Bear," characterizing the thousands of wild animals driven from their homes annually by forest fires, is available on a sticker from the U. S. Forest Service, which is sponsoring the annual forest fire prevention campaign. The big stamps can be used on the backs of envelopes.

The stickers have the bear's slogan, "Only YOU can prevent forest fires." They can be obtained by writing G. A. McDonald, Div. of Information and Education, U. S. Forest Service, Dept. of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

The Post Office department is equipping many of its canceling machines with dies bringing out "Smokey's" slogan, along with posters in the post offices and signs on the sides of 11,300 postal trucks.

Clint Davis, director of the campaign, pointed out there are 210,000 forest fires annually in the United States, destroying 30,000,000 acres of woods valued at $40,000,000.

Claim Farm Program to Aid Cities

Higher-Bracket Would Foot Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Government farm economists say that if you are a low income city dweller you would get the most direct benefit from the proposed new farm program.

They say the program would hold down grocery bills. Since the low-income man puts out a larger part of his income for food than does his richer neighbor, his saving would be greater in proportion.

The program might, indirectly, cost the high-income man money. With his high income, he pays high taxes, and it is proposed that the farm program be financed with tax money. Therefore the high-income man certainly would be carrying a heavier part of the load even if actual taxes were not increased to carry the farm program.

Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture, worked out the new farm plan with the depression of the 30's vividly in mind. He believes that low prices for farm products, cutting the incomes of farmers, was an important factor in starting the depression.

At the same time, he says, city people must be able to buy all the food they need. This means prices for farm products must be reasonable.

Brannan places considerable emphasis upon how the farm program will affect the city dwellers. One reason for this is the fact that he was designated to present to Congress the administration's whole economic program — not just the farm program.

He has proposed that the government pay farmers a direct subsidy from taxes if their incomes drop below a level that prevents them from maintaining a "fair" standard of living.

At the same time he is proposing that most of the goods that the farmer produces remain in the market. He says abundant goods tend to keep down prices the consumer pays.

Under some previous price support programs the government took some of the crop out of the market — even destroyed portions of it.

The purpose was to reduce the quantity available to the public, thus intensify demand and boost the prices the consumer had to pay.

Czech Rips 'War Scare'

FLUSHING, N. Y. — (UP) — Czechoslovakia, continuing the Russian Bloc's attack against the North Atlantic treaty, charged in the United Nations yesterday the Secretary of State Dean Acheson, while opposing war, "was rattling arms as though someone was ready to attack Washington tomorrow."

Dr. Adolf Hoffmeister, Czech delegate, also referred to a report by columnist Drew Pearson that former Secretary of Defense James Forrestal was suffering a nervous breakdown and that he was "obsessed with the idea the Russians were invading" the United States.

He said this was a "sad event" which was brought up to retort to those responsible for the "war psychosis."

Starting Pay Upped

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — — (UP) — Starting pay offered college graduates probably is now at any all time peak, West Virginia University's placement Secretary Harry E. Stone, says. Stone reported starting pay offers currently are $20 to $25 higher per month than those offered a year ago.

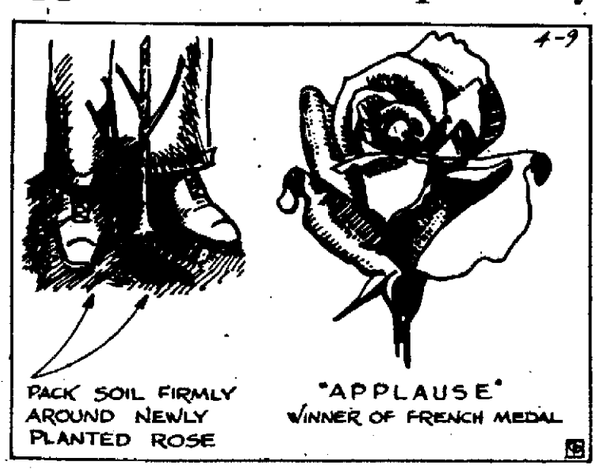
Applause Rose Is Top Beauty



By DEAN HALLIDAY
(By Central Press)

An American rose which won friends and influenced the judges at the first post-war rose contest, held in Paris, France, is known as Applause.

It won a gold medal in the time-honored Bagatelle competition, which is the most famous of all international competitions for new roses.

A partly-opened flower of this rose is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, Its color is a pleasing red, and the bud is gracefully high-centered, indicating the 40 to 50 petals to be produced in the fully formed flower. There is a yellow base on each petal, which adds to the brilliance of the open bloom.

It is a recommended addition to the home rose garden for the plant is free-branching, upright and bushy. It produces many flowers on good stems, with a pleasant perfume.

If you are making a rose bed this year for the first time bear in mind that it should be simple in design. And narrow enough to permit cultivating, spraying and picking of blooms without stepping into the bed.

The ideal site for a rose bed is one protected from winds, where the roses will enjoy sun for half the day, yet be in shade when the sun's rays are hottest.

Plant roses 12 to 16 inches apart. Staggered planting facilitates maintenance. Rose roots enjoy a cool soil, and close planting enables the foliage to screen the surface of the bed from the sun.

Remember, too, that roses planted in spring require more drastic pruning than those set out in the fall. Roses are pruned to increase their vigor and concentrate the plant's energy on growth which will produce quality blooms.

When pruning, cut out any dead or broken branches and weak, spindly shoots, also center branches which cross each other.

Health Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Three Republican senators beat the administration to the draw yesterday by offering a bill to relieve "clear deficences" in the nation's health by federal grants to states.

The bill, sponsored by Sens. Taft (R) Ohio, Smith (R) N. J., and Donnell (R) Mo., was introduced while Congress was still waiting for the borad national health legislation being prepared by President Truman and his advisers.

The Republican bill would provide grants, principally to states, totalling 280 million dollars in localities and medical schools would have to put up matching amounts to take part in the program.

A new national health agency would be set up to administer the provisions of the bill.

The Holy Week Story as Told In Works of Historic Art

THE BETRAYAL, an engraving by Albrecht Durer, 1508.
". . . Cometh Judas, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves. . . . And he that betrayed Him had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is He. . . . And as soon as he was come, he goeth straightway to Him, and saith, Master, Master; and kissed Him."—St. Mark 14. 43-45.

THE CROWN OF THORNS, an engraving by Albrecht Durer.
"And when they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon His head, and a reed in His right hand; and they bowed the knee before Him, and mocked Him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews! And they spit upon Him, and took the reed, and smote Him on the head. And after they had mocked Him, they took the robe off from Him, and put His own raiment on Him, and led Him away to crucify Him."—St. Matthew 27. 29-31.

CARRYING THE CROSS, an engraving by Albrecht Durer, 1512.
"And He bearing His cross went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha; where they crucified Him, and two others with Him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst."—St. John 19. 17-18.

THE CRUCIFIXION, an engraving by Albrecht Durer, 1511.
"And when they were come to a place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified Him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand and the other on the left. Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do."—St. Luke 23. 33-34.

CHRIST'S BURIAL, an engraving by Albrecht Durer, 1512.
"And he bought fine linen, and took Him down, and wrapped Him in the linen, and laid Him in a sepulchre which was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre."
—St. Mark 16. 46.

Mayor, Commissioners Put OK On Hospitalization Drive

The Blue Cross-Blue Shield community enrollment today received official backing of Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and Richland county's commissioners.

In simultaneous proclamations they urged local families to protect themselves "against the cost of unpredictable illness" by joining the community-wide plan for non-profit, pre-paid hospitalization and surgical care.

The Blue Cross-Blue Shield enrollment is now in progress. Application stations are situated in the M. O'Neil Co. department store and Farmers Bank Bldg.

The enrollment closes next Wednesday, according to Wayne Copeland, administrator of Mansfield General Hospital. It can not be re-opened for at least a year after that date, he said.

Copeland explained that the Blue Cross Hospitalization plan and Blue Shield Surgical Care ordinarily are available only to certain groups. In the current enrollment, any individual or family — regardless of age or physical condition — may affiliate at special community rates, he said.

"Persons such as the self-employed, unemployed, retired and those working for companies with fewer than 10 employes are permitted to join for the first time," he said. "These persons and their families ordinarily are excluded"

Blue Cross has announced new benefits and rate increases effective May 15. Spokesmen said the increases, ranging up to 55 cents daily in wards and semi-private rooms, were made necessary by the cost of new "miracle drugs" and increased use of oxygen.

In addition to increased benefits and payments for care of patients in member hospitals, subscribers who are hospitalized in non-member hospitals will obtain more benefits, J. D. King, enrollment representative of the Akron office, explained.

Thief Likes Scissors

ATHENS — (INS) — The trial of Demeter Papakhristos, a Law student accused of repeatedly stealing tailor's scissors; took place recently.

The 23 year-old Demeter had been convicted seven times in the past for the same offence.

The Public Prosecutor asked:

"The accused has been caught seven times in the act of stealing tailor's scissors; but who can tell the number of scissors he stole without being found out?"

Demeter specialized in tailor's scissors. Any other type left him cold. Asked what made him steal tailor's scissors, of all things, Demeter candidly explained:

"Well, I can't help it. They fascinate me!"

DRIVER DIES OF BURNS

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Nick Platenak, 28-year-old truck driver, died yesterday of burns suffered when his oil-stained coveralls were ignited by a cigaret.

Cities Ready Fight On Rate Increases

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Seven Ohio cities prepared today for a last-ditch fight against the 10-million - dollar rate increase granted the Ohio Bell Telephone company by the Public Utilities commission March 29.

Columbus City Attorney Richard W. Gordon said his city, with Akron and Dayton, will file an appeal with the PUCO before April 28, with Cleveland, Springfield, Toledo and Youngstown expected to join the protest move.

Elaborate Trimmings Herald Easter In Mansfield Stores

When it comes to elaborate trimmings for the Easter season few stores can top the bakery and confectioner's stores in Mansfield.

Everything from huge chocolate rabbits to a bride and groom emerging from a white icing church can be found in the various display windows.

Adding a humorous slant to the traditional features are the little veiled hats, latest in milady's fashion, made of cake, frosting, and little bows. Close inspection of these little 'bonnets' shows kitchen matches being used as hat pins, about the only portion of the hat not good to eat.

In one store a huge milk chocolate basket is filled to the brim with Easter eggs (candy variety) and poking out of the nest of eggs is one lone rabbit.

Only one sour note seems to be found among the Easter shoppers — the little fuzzy 'peeps' which once sold for a cent apiece are now being retailed at five times that amount, a nickel a chick.

Conspicuous by their very absence are the little live colored chickens and rabbits formerly found in almost every window. Natural yellow chicks, however, are attracting attention in various feed and implement store windows.

Annual 'Fete' Cancelled

The traditional egg rolling and hunt on the White House lawn will be missing again this year, it was announced in Washington.

Official reason for the deletion of this annual ceremony was said to be because President Truman has been forced to evacuate the White House until repairs can be made.

In previous years hundreds of children gathered on the spacious grounds to search for hidden eggs in the shrubbery and on the lawn.

The custom was originated by President Roosevelt during the earlier days of his long tenure of office.

Pies In the Face

DECATUR, ILL. — (UP) — Freshmen at James Millikin University let upperclassmen take pot shots at them with gelatin-filled pies. It was all for a good cause. The upperclassmen paid 25-cents a throw for the privilege. The money went for overseas student aid.

Firm Learns Lesson

SAN DIEGO — (UP) — The San Diego Gas and Electric co. expects to spend almost $16,000,000 during 1949 to expand its facilities and prevent another gas shortage such as resulted in this winter's unprecedented cold spell.

SPECTATORS at the 18th Mansfield Relays will get the best break ever next Friday and Saturday. . . . A bull-pen has been erected in the middle of Stadium field and officials maintain that huge crowds of idle athletes and fans will not swarm over and around the jumping and shot put pits as in previous years. . . . This should be a big help to the track followers who enjoy the field events. . . . However, the problem won't be licked until some of the pits are moved to the middle of the field so that the fans can get a short unimpeded view. . . . Hank Richards, chairman of the Tyger club housing committee, still needs 130 free sleeping rooms for athletes for Friday night. . . . These rooms (and breakfasts) are provided athletes who travel more than 135 miles to Mansfield. . . . If you have a room, just call Hank at 4935-4. . . .

Billy Doolittle, the former Senior high and Ohio State football star, is now coaching track at Grandview high school. . . . He enjoyed his sojourns as head grid and basketball mentor at Grandview and plans to bring his track team to the Relays.

★

FRED PEARL, who was a thorn in the side of the Mansfield Senior high grid team last fall when he starred at Springfield, is now wearing the colors of Dayton Dunbar. . . . Pearl quit the Wildcat cage squad after one of the games and by some quirk of fate wound up eligible to compete for the Dunbar track team. . . . Pearl tied for third in the state high jump last year and knotted Willie Fowler for fourth in the same event in the Mansfield Relays. . . . Addition of Pearl may be just what Dunbar needs to wrest the state title from Springfield.

★

THREE MEMBERS of the crack 1946 Tyger football team gave Harry Mehock's thinclads the once over last night. . . . They were quite enthused with what they saw. . . . The trio included Ross Frisbee, blocking back; Ken Horvath, fullback and Dave Richards, guard. . . . Horvath has dropped out of football at Purdue while Richards (West Virginia) and Frisbee (Indiana) are getting a short spring practice vacation. . . . Frisbee broke into many games last fall and is running with the third team. . . . Richards spot on the Mountaineer squad will be determined by games against Carnegie Tech, April 13; Duquesne, April 30, and an intra-squad tilt, May 6.

Homers Rattle Off In Droves

NEW YORK — (AP) — It looks like a good year for small boys who perch on rooftops around major league baseball parks. Home runs are coming in droves.

The season doesn't open until next week and the big league parks are a few sizes larger than most minor league enclosures, but take a look at what happened yesterday.

Fifteen major league teams—12 of them facing major league opposition—hit 30 home runs in exhibition games.

Four of the clubs hit three homers in a single inning. Only the Chicago Cubs failed to put the ball out of the lot at least once.

Colony Alleys Get Ohio Meet

The Colony bowling alleys have been awarded the 1950 Ohio state Moose tournament, it was announced today by Colony manager Art Hilborn.

Hilborn said that some 500 teams would compete here over a ten-week route early next year. The tournament will probably start around the first of February and continue into April.

The tournament will be one of the largest held here in recent years. The 1949 tourney was held in Cleveland.

Tyger Track Team Co-Favorite In Relays

Springfield, Columbus Also Picked

SPRINGFIELD — Mansfield Senior high, Columbus Central and Springfield have been established as favorites in the first annual Springfield Invitational Relays which will be staged here tomorrow.

The state championship Wildcats figure to have a slight advantage over undefeated Mansfield and Columbus Central. Springfield knocked off the Columbus crew last week, 62 to 56, and has a half-dozen stars from its 1948 team. Columbus had won three straight before running into Springfield.

THREE VICTORIES

Mansfield has won three easy decisions but the times of the Tygers are just a bit off the marks which should win here. However, Mansfield has not been pushed and may have enough additional strength to come through.

Eighteen high schools and seven junior highs will compete in the track and field meet. The high school field numbers 450 boys.

Other schools in the field are: Columbus South, Cincinnati Vocational, Dayton Fairview, Dayton Wilbur Wright, Marietta, Newark, Greenville, Hamilton, Lima Central, New Carlisle, Piqua, South Charleston, Troy, Upper Arlington and Xenia Central.

Preliminaries are scheduled Saturday at 10 a. m. with the finals set for 2 p. m. The Springfield cinder competition is sponsored by the Springfield booster club.

★

Coach Harry Mehock's 21-man Tyger squad is scheduled to leave Mansfield by car tomorrow at 6 a. m. The Bengals will compete in all 15 events.

AMONG STARS

Sprinter Tommy Tucker, Hurdler A. C. Jenkins and Jumper Willie Fowler are rated among the individual stars. Tucker placed in the 100-yard dash and broad jump in the state meet last year as Mansfield came in sixth.

Springfield won the Mansfield Relays in 1948 with Columbus Central and Dayton Dunbar tying for second. Dunbar was invited to compete in the Springfield show.

American Legion Junior Team To Play In League

Mansfield's American Legion Juniors baseball team will compete in a six team league with area cities this summer. Schedule for the loop will be drawn up next Friday at a meeting in Loudonville.

Represented along with Mansfield will be teams from Crestline, Shelby, Plymouth, Bucyrus, and Galion. The circuit will be one of four organized in the fifth district and the winners will compete in a playoff.

The regular season leagues will have no bearing on tournament play, however, as it is to start on a county basis. Mansfield, Shelby, and Plymouth will compete in a tournament, with the winner advancing to district play.

Mansfield lost out last year in an extra-inning game in the state finals. Practice this year will start with the closing of school. The league will open shortly after.

Kentucky Derby Eligibles Race

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — A line on how Old Rockport is coming along in his Kentucky Derby preps should be given at Keeneland race course this afternoon.

The Clifford Mooers colt will be racing for the first time since he won the $100,000 Santa Anita derby in February. He will match strides with two other ranking derby contenders, J. A. Kinard, jr.'s Johns Joy and Mrs. Emil Denemark's Provocative.

Bob Feller Belted Hard; Indian Bats Win, 15 to 9

RICHMOND, Va.—(INS)—Bob Feller is still Manager Lou Boudreau's choice to pitch the opening game for the Cleveland Indians next Tuesday, but whether he is a wise one remains to be seen.

Many observers believe that Gene Bearden, who was to pitch against the New York Giants today in Richmond, Va., should be the hurler when the Tribe opens against the St. Louis Browns.

Making his last start of the spring season, Rapid Robert proved himself not-so-rapid yesterday in Hickory, N. C., as the Giants blasted him for six runs on nine hits, including three successive home runs, in six innings.

The Tribe won the contest, however—no thanks to Feller.

It was the world champions' booming bats which supplied the punch and gave them a 15-9 victory over their spring pals.

Although the Indians scored four runs in the fourth inning on home runs by Boudreau and Mickey Vernon, it was not until the last of the sixth, when Feller had left the mound, that the Tribe really opened fire on the Empire City sluggers.

Four base hits gave the Redskins three runs in the sixth and they added two more in the seventh.

THREE HOME RUNS

After the Giants tied the count at 9-all in the first half of the eighth, the Tribe blasted seven hits, including three straight home runs by Bob Kennedy, Jim Hegan and Early Wynn, matching the Giants feat, for six runs.

Kennedy led the hit parade for the Tribe collecting two singles, a double and a home run in five trips to the plate. Vernon followed with a single, a double and a homer in four trips. The Redskins banged out a total of 17 hits.

The Giants, meanwhile, managed to get only three hits off Wynn, who replaced Feller in the seventh, in the three innings he worked.

Wynn, who was obtained from Washington, probably will get the call for the Indians' opening home game against the Detroit Tigers a week from today.

Thirty Teams Enter Amvets State Kegling

Thirty teams have entered the Amvets state bowling tournament which is to open Saturday April 23 on the Richland Recreation lanes, Tournament Manager Dick Underwood announced today.

Eleven Ohio cities will be represented, Underwood said. Entry list fell a bit short of expectations because many posts entered all-star teams instead their entire bowling cast.

The tournament will run April 23-24, April 30-May 1, and May 7-8. Ten teams will bowl each Saturday night and the individuals from those teams in singles and doubles Sunday afternoon. The team winner is to get the John Cattlet memorial trophy donated by the local post. It is to be a rotating award with the first post winning it three times getting permanent possession.

Teams will be entered from Mansfield, Cuyahoga Falls, Findlay, Delphos, Akron, Toledo, Toledo Navy, Cleveland, Lorain, Columbus, Cincinnati and Salem. Seven teams will compete from Mansfield.

Small and Callahan To Fight In Cleveland

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Georgie Small, Brooklyn middleweight and Dick Callahan of Boston, have been matched for a 10-round semi-final bout here next Friday.

Lightweight champion Ike Williams and Vince Turpin of Canton will tangle in the main fight.

City Class B Loop Set Up

The City Class B golf league set Friday May 6 for its opening date at an organization meeting last night at Possum Run golf club.

League members chose Frank Vild as president and Ned Simon as secretary. Eight teams were formed but several players were left over and the roster will be jumped to ten teams if sponsors can be found.

All points will be decided by strict match play, no emphasis being placed on medal. Four man teams will play for one point per man. A trophy will be presented by the club to the winning team and individual awards will be made to the players on the team.

Relays Athletes Gun For Big Prize Slice

Athletes competing in the 18th annual Mansfield Relays will have a good opportunity to come up with that elusive pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

For Mansfield's giant cinder path festival presents the greatest array of prizes offered in any track and field competition of its type. The 1,000 odd scholastic thinclads will go after a slice of 22 team* and 220 individual awards in the $1,500 prize kitty.

"America's largest independent scholastic classic" gets under way with grade school and the four-mile high school relay events Friday, April 22. The remainder of the 18 events will be run off on April 23. Preliminaries are scheduled in the morning with the finals opening at 1:45 p. m.

The "apple" of the big prize list is the yard-high award now held by the Springfield Wildcats, 1949 Mansfield Relays and state champion. The Wildcats won the crown with 31.7 points while Dayton Dunbar and Columbus Central tied for second with 23.

The huge trophy goes to the first club which wins three relays. Cleveland East Tech retired the first trophy in 1941.

PERMANENT AWARDS

Each of the top ten teams, including the victor, gets a 24-inch permanent trophy. Winner of each of the eight relay events, coach of the winning team, team making the most points in the field events, and team making the most points in the track events all get one of the two-foot awards.

First three placers, individual or relay events, receive a belt buckle with the special Mansfield Relays crest. The schoolboys coming in fourth and fifth will get the 88 medals, which are being offered in place of ribbons this year. The belt buckle list totals 132.

Entry list for the 1949 Relays closes April 21, 1949.

Dante to Wed

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Dante Lavelli, star right end for the Cleveland Browns professional football team, announced today he will marry Joy Lucinda Wright, Brecksville, April 23.

John Simpson Wins Opening Track Meet

John Simpson junior high took first place in all 12 events yesterday as it romped to an easy 83-17 victory over Plymouth a track and field meet at Stadium field.

Plymouth, hampered by lack of practice with regulation equipment took only five seconds and two thirds in the meet.

Ted Schluter of Simpson walked off with high point honors with 16¼ as he won the 440, pole vault, and broad jump and ran the lead-off spot on the 880 relay team. Bob Mathews was not too far behind with winners in the hundred and 220, a third in the broad jump, and anchor position on the relay squad.

Simpson had clean sweeps in all track events but the 120 low hurdles where Plymouth's Dean Grabach came in second. In the field part Simpson won by only 32-13.

The Simpson team will drill each day next week at 9:30 a. m.

Tyger, Ram Contest Set On Saturday

The long-awaited meeting of Madison and Senior high schools will have to wait just a little longer. Scheduled for yesterday afternoon at Blue Goose diamond, the game was postponed by wet grounds and re-set for 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Whether the field will be in condition then is questionable after last night's downpour but Coach Blaine Dowler of Madison — the home team—says that it will be played if at all possible. If the ground is too wet, the game will be set up again next week.

The contest is the first regular-season meeting of the two schools since 1935 and will bring together two of the best young pitchers in the city, Ray "Dutch" Bader of Madison and Senior high's Lou (Double No-Hit) Gregorio.

A 25-cent admission charge will be made.

Finnigan to Get Another Job at Baldwin-Wallace

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Eddie Finnigan, nationally-known coach of Harrison Dillard and the Baldwin-Wallace track team will take over as the school's head football coach when the offer is made official.

Athletic Director Ray Watts, present grid chief, offered the job to Finnigan over a week ago.

Cincinnati Reds Nip New York Yankees, 2 to 1

Home Runs Account For All Three Runs

RICHMOND, Ind. — (UP) — Johnny (Double No-Hit) Vander Meer was slated to pitch for the Cincinnati Reds today in an exhibition game against Indianapolis after being removed from the injured list.

He had suffered a pulled leg muscle.

The Reds were hoping he could match the performance of Lefty Ken Raffensberger, who went the route yesterday to defeat the New York Yankees, 2 to 1, in Cincinnati. Raffensberger, who has been named to pitch the opener, lost a shutout when Johnny Lindell homered in the ninth.

Ray Mueller homered with Ted Kluszewski aboard for Cincinnati's two runs

Up to the ninth, Raffensberger had scattered six hits without getting into trouble. He not only won the ball game, but became the first Red Hurler to go the route this year.

Joe Page and Eddie Lopat gave the Reds little to swing at, spreading four hits over nine innings. Lopat, who served up the one that Mueller drove out of the park, was credited with the loss. Page's performance, a line safety in three innings of work, indicated he will be a tough man to beat in any league.

Some 6,291 fans turned out to welcome the Red Legs home from spring training wars Although nothing was at stake, the queen city rooters for the most part left the park satisfied the Reds may do better this year

Gradv Hatton, queen city first baseman, committed the only error of the afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — The slugging of outfielder Del Ennis was still gladdening Philadelphia Phils Manager Ed Sawyer today as the Phillies came home to open their annual series against the Philadelphia A's

Ennis connected for another of his spring homers yesterday as the Phils beat the Baltimore Orioles, 6 to 3, at Baltimore. Eddie Miller and Stan Lopat also homered for the winners.

The A's however, are also in hitting form, as witness their 13 to 2 victory over Savannah, Ga , of the Sally league yesterday at Savannah Home runs by Ferris Fain Hank Majeski and Buddy Rosar led the Athletics' 20-hit barrage

John Lindell Back at Old Stand as Sub

By STAN OPOTOWSKY

NEW YORK — (UP) — Johnny Lindell was back at his old stand today, serving the New York Yankees as a poor man's Di Maggio and perfectly happy to do so.

Manager Casey Stengel has picked jump-about Johnny to fill in at centerfield until the ailing Di Mag can return to action and maybe Lindell can keep the job permanently should the "hot heel" end Di Maggio career.

All of this is neither new nor displeasing to Lindell, a six-foot-five fugitive from the pitcher's mound. "I'm going to hold the job until Joe returns," he said yesterday, "but I'll be happy to move out when the 'boss' is ready to take over."

Lindell gave an idea yesterday of how much he means to keep up Yankee power in the absence of jolting Joe His lofty home run to left saved the Yanks from a shut out as they lost a 2 to 1 exhibition to Cincinnati, and he also came through with a single in the second inning

Manager Stengel was impressed, and pointed out, 'after all, he's the only man we have with major league experience in center field.

ONLY HALF STORY

But major league experience in centerfield is only half the story. Stengel should have said, "major league experience in Di Maggio's shoes" For the situation today is almost identical with the scene as the Yankees opened their 1947 season

Then, as now, Di Maggio was out of action with a heel spur. And Lindell took over until Joe returned to the lineup. It is true that the Di Maggio injury of 1947 is not as grave as the Di Maggio of 1949, but it's also true that Lindell didn't do the club any harm as it pranced to the American league pennant He hit 275 that season.

Neither did he do the club any harm in the ensuing world series. Not even a couple of cracked ribs, you may recall, could stop Johnny from either playing or from hitting .500 against Brooklyn.

When it first became obvious that Di Maggio was a question mark Manager Stengel naturally turned to Lindell But big Johnny didn't look too well in early spring training this year When Di Maggio left the club at Fort Worth, Tex , Tuesday, Stengel toyed with the idea of using two rookies in his stead, Hank Bauer against left-handed pitchers and Gene Woodling against righties

By the time the club reached Cincinnati yesterday, however, that idea was discounted in favor of Lindell And as the Yanks launched an exhibition series against Brooklyn here today it appeared that jump-about Johnny had landed in center field again, may-be this time to stay maybe

Ball Chieftain Figures Fans Will Increase

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

CHICAGO — (INS) — Albert Chandler, high commissioner of baseball, won't be unduly surprised to see the wild all-time-record attendance figures of 1948 surpassed in 1949.

"It would take a couple of close races to do it," the gentleman from Kentucky said in Chicago yesterday, "but it could conceivably be done. After all, from the standpoint of admission prices, baseball is the cheapest big-time sport in the country—and you know how the people love baseball."

Mr. Chandler added, posthaste, that he doesn't think it should be cause for alarm should the 19 attendance figures in the majors fail to hit the sky-high '48 totals Last year, productive as it was with the first pennant tie in American league history, was mildly unusual.

But if close races will do it this year, the commissioner may be right in saying the old attendance mark can be bettered At least, he predicts close races in both leagues

Art Hilborn Gets Big 661 To Pace Commercial Loop

Unlike its big brother, the City A league, the Commercial B loop has refused to slow down just because the season's end is in sight. Four honor roll scores, a 256 game, and an upset of the league leaders shared the spotlight in the B loop last night.

Art Hilborn fired the top score of the night, a 207-243-211—661, to pace Yuncker's to a drive which carried it within two games of leading Dearman's Transportation. Yuncker's won two of three from Fancee Brands while eighth-place Ingram-Martin was spilling Dearman's twice.

Two more bowling nights remain, giving Yuncker's an opportunity to catch up.

Ed Henrich of Schroer's had the 256 single game as he blasted his way to a 608 series. Phil Warga posted 622 for Ingram-Martin and Horace Freese had a 601 for Dearman's Transportation.

Harold Biles, Dearman's had 594, Nick Weber, Liederkranz, 590, and Hank Heiser, Mansfield Rug, 582. In the 570 class was Frank Burton, Mansfield Rug, 572, and E. Lucas, Lions club, 574.

The Sport Center quintet increased its league margin to 14 games by taking three from The Elms with a 2,435 pin-fall. Two other members of the team wound up among the "high" bowlers Donna Schuster had a 534 and Sue Humphrey 508.

Peg Yingling, Lemley Cleaners, was third with a 541 followed by Arlene Peters, PD's Bar, 524 and Helen Wilhelm, Lemley, 516 Wilhelm had a 201

Home Runs Account For All Three Runs

RICHMOND, Ind. — (UP) — Johnny (Double No-Hit) Vander Meer was slated to pitch for the Cincinnati Reds today in an exhibition game against Indianapolis after being removed from the injured list.

He had suffered a pulled leg muscle.

Ray Mueller homered with Ted Kluszewski aboard for Cincinnati's two runs.

Up to the ninth, Raffensberger had scattered six hits without getting into trouble. He not only won the ball game, but became the first Red Hurler to go the route this year.

Joe Page and Eddie Lopat gave the Reds little to swing at, spreading four hits over nine innings. Lopat, who served up the one that Mueller drove out of the park, was credited with the loss. Page's performance, a line safety in three innings of work, indicated he will be a tough man to beat in any league.

Art Hilborn Gets Big 661 To Pace Commercial Loop

Unlike its big brother, the City A league, the Commercial B loop has refused to slow down just because the season's end is in sight. Four honor roll scores, a 256 game, and an upset of the league leaders shared the spotlight in the B loop last night.

Art Hilborn fired the top score of the night, a 207-243-211—661, to pace Yuncker's to a drive which carried it within two games of leading Dearman's Transportation. Yuncker's won two of three from Fancee Brands while eighth-place Ingram-Martin was spilling Dearman's twice.

Two more bowling nights remain, giving Yuncker's an opportunity to catch up.

Ed Henrich of Schroer's had the 256 single game as he blasted his way to a 608 series. Phil Warga posted 622 for Ingram-Martin and Horace Freese had a 601 for Dearman's Transportation.

Harold Biles, Dearman's had 594, Nick Weber, Liederkranz, 590, and Hank Heiser, Mansfield Rug, 582. In the 570 class was Frank Burton, Mansfield Rug, 572, and E. Lucas, Lions club, 574.

Martha Dye, Outlet Furs, took a strangle hold on Women's Commercial A honors last night with a consistent 192-186-191—569 while Dot McDevitt, of league-leading Sport Center, hit 182-178-188—548.

The Sport Center quintet increased its league margin to 14 games by taking three from The Elms with a 2,435 pin-fall. Two other members of the team wound up among the "high" bowlers. Donna Schuster had a 534 and Sue Humphrey 508.

Peg Yingling, Lemley Cleaners, was third with a 541 followed by Arlene Peters, PD's Bar, 524 and Helen Wilhelm, Lemley, 516. Wilhelm had a 201.

Other sweeps were Lemley over Richland Printing and PD's Bar over Mansfield Frosted Foods.

Others: Fred Crawford, Mud Gardner's, 498; Jim Passerini, Mansfield Hardware, 490; Bob Culler, Gardner's, 486; Nicholas, Al's Kicks, 476 and Louis Doerr, Purdy Construction, 464.

Buckeye took three from Art Litho Print. John Precup had a big 220 but put 130 and 111 with it for a 461 total.

Jake Streitmater connected for a 181-208-187—576 to lead the Tappan Stove league at the Colony. C. Donnan was the No. 2 man with 189-202-179—570.

Others: W. Blackledge, 559; Hal LeMunyon, 531; V. Shaffer, 524 and R. Creveling, 522. Blackledge inserted a 146 between games of 210 and 203.
